

Nixon Subpoenaed in Ehrlichman Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon was subpoenaed today to appear as a witness at the Watergate cover-up trial by lawyers for his former aide, John D. Ehrlichman.

The trial is scheduled to begin in U.S. District Court here Sept. 9. Ehrlichman, former domestic affairs advisor to Nixon, is one of six former advisors or associates of Nixon facing trial in the cover-up.

Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and the other four are accused of conspiracy and other charges. Nixon was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the case.

Nixon was subpoenaed to appear Sept. 9. The subpoena was signed by Andrew G. Hall, Ehrlichman's attorney.

Witnesses are routinely subpoenaed to appear on the day a trial begins, but do not necessarily appear that day.

Ehrlichman's action was the first legal step taken against Nixon since he resigned last week.

The subpoena came as Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski was reported to be studying the possibility of taking legal action against the former President.

Ehrlichman, Haldeman and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell have asked for a delay in the trial and a hearing is set for Monday before Federal Judge John J. Sirica.

Ehrlichman had tried to subpoena Nixon while he was still President, but at that time his lawyers argued he could not be compelled to appear while he was still in office.

Today's subpoena was addressed to Nixon at the "presidential compound, San Clemente, Calif."

Lawyers for Haldeman contended Wednesday in asking for delay of the trial that the public has been so poisoned against him that no jury would find him innocent of Watergate crimes.

He said any prospective juror who could honestly say he knows nothing about Watergate or had formed no opinions in the case would be "so oblivious to national affairs" he would not be smart enough to serve on the jury.

Another defendant, former Nixon campaign lawyer Kenneth W. Parkinson, filed papers opposing any delay. He asked instead that he be given a separate trial and that it be moved away from Washington.

Parkinson's lawyers said he has only a "peripheral attachment" to his codefendants, "all of whom are politicians" rather than practicing lawyers as he is, and four of whom he does not even know. He said his case could be wrapped up at a separate trial within a month.

The trial of the "Watergate Six" also includes Robert C. Mardian and Gordon Strachan.

Haldeman also argued that Nixon's release of the crucial June 23, 1972, tape of their discussion limiting the FBI's early Watergate investigation severely damaged his case.

"With the complete impregnation of the public mind by the continuous reporting of alleged proofs of guilt on the part of this defendant, a fair trial by an intelligent jury cannot be obtained at this time," Haldeman's lawyers said.

Meanwhile in its final action impeachment, the House Judiciary Committee concludes that Richard M. Nixon left the presidency for good reasons—he lied, violated laws and subverted the Constitution.

The charges are spelled out in a report the panel will submit to the full House next week, explaining the actions it took on impeachment the past 10 months, laying out the evidence supporting the three articles of impeachment it adopted and offering conclusions on guilt. Nixon, faced with the certainty that he would be impeached and removed from office, resigned last week.

"For more than two years, the President engaged in a course of conduct which involved deliberate, repeated and continued deception of the American people," the report said.

The committee members have until the end of today to submit any additional or differing views to the report, which exists only in draft form. The 193-page draft was circulated to the 38 committee members late Wednesday and UPI obtained a copy.

Nixon violated federal laws, the report said, "by engaging in a course of conduct or plan designed to delay, impede, and obstruct the investigation of unlawful entry on June 17, 1972, into the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee; and to conceal the existence and scope of other unlawful covert activities."

Turks Claim Capture of Famagusta

Cypriots Evacuate Port

By United Press International

The Turkish General Staff announced tonight its armed forces had broken through to the east coast of Cyprus in its drive to divide the island into two parts along a 65-mile "Atilla Line." Greece was so angry at U.S. failure to halt the Turkish offensive it threatened to expel the 4,000 American troops in Greece.

A communique issued at 11 a.m. EDT in Istanbul said Turkish troops had reached the suburbs of Famagusta, the bombed out and smoking ancient port on the east coast that is the chief stronghold of the battered Greek Cypriot forces. The move meant that Turkey now controls the northern half of Cyprus.

The Little Rock, flagship of the U.S. 6th Fleet, suddenly put to sea at Gaeta, Italy, for an unknown destination, military sources said. The guided missile light cruiser reportedly left the port city between Rome and Naples at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) after urgently recalling crew on shore leave for the Assumption Day holiday. The cruiser had been under maintenance and was not scheduled to leave the base until Sept. 1.

Acting Cypriot President

Glafkos Clerides convened his cabinet ministers in Nicosia in an atmosphere of what a government source described as widespread speculation Greek Cyprus would bow to the demands of the Turks and give up the captured areas of the island.

Related story on page 5.

A Greek government spokesman in Athens said Clerides telephoned Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis to deny the reports he would recognize Turkish sovereignty north of a line stretching from Famagusta in the east through Nicosia to the town of Lefka in the west.

"Atilla Line" is named after Atilla the Hun and his ancient line which represented the westernmost penetration of Europe by the Huns who came out of the part of Asia that now includes Turkey.

Parts of the capital city of Nicosia erupted in flames sparked by mortar fire from Turkish units battling Greek Cypriots. There had been an uneasy cease-fire briefly during the night.

The United Nations Security Council was called into session again at 11 a.m. EDT to try to halt the fighting. President Ford conferred with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who conferred with America's allies.

NATO officials flew to London for urgent conferences there.

An Athens dispatch by UPI Correspondent Aline Mosby said Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros had rejected a Kissinger invitation to fly to Washington and that a government official said Greece had decided to expel the Americans stationed there and take over the installations itself. On Wednesday Greece withdrew its armed forces from NATO, threatening to collapse the southern flank of the alliance.

Famagusta itself was deserted. Huge columns of black smoke poured into the sky. The last refugees fled in cars, trucks and tractors carrying a few personal possessions into the British base at Dhekelia 15 miles to the south.

"We've been evacuating the building, we have no drugs, hardly any dressings, nothing," one doctor said. "This town is finished."

Turkish infantry backed by U.S.-built M48 tanks, self-propelled artillery and armored personnel carriers converged on Famagusta along the north-south coastal road and the northern and southern roads approaching from the west, a U.N. spokesman said.

Bus Co., Insurance Firm In Uptown UR Dispute

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, pursuing its stated policy of allocating land for "highest and best use," finds itself embroiled in a dispute between a mid-town busing operation and uptown insurance agency both of whom want to redevelop what is referred to as Parcel 12 on Washington Avenue.

Parcel 12, the former Spencer House, is located between Utility Platters Inc. on Washington Avenue and the Citgo Service Station at the corner of North Front Street and Washington Avenue. The Citgo Service Station figures prominently in the dispute between Adirondack Trailways Inc., headed by Eugene Berardi, and Roland Augustine, head of the Wall Street insurance firm.

Berardi and Augustine weren't the only parties interested in Parcel 12. McDonald's Hamburgers approached the agency with an offer as well as Dr. Morton Cohen, a dentist, Bertha Gally, a realtor and an outfit called JVIC Organization, a group of local real estate investors.

The agency acquired the Spencer property from its 89-year-old owner on Dec. 31, 1973, but a previous development at the gasoline station considerably changed the agency's view on disposal of the property. The gas station became vacant in 1973, according to an agency report, and the firm decided to sell it.

The agency decided that the "highest and best use" for Parcel 12 would be to combine it with the Citgo property. For one, it would make for a larger disposition parcel; for another, it would remove the "blight" of a gas station in an area of new development.

The agency report to the Common Council states that "the only encouraging word received back from the interested developers relative to combining the parcels came on March 8, 1974, from the president of Adirondack Trailways... he advised that negotiations for the Citgo property were continuing."

On June 7, Adirondack advised the agency that its offer to purchase the Citgo property had been accepted.

During the week of June 17 the agency designated Berardi's father, James Berardi, as the proposed developer (it will be leased to Adirondack), it has also raised questions of conflict of interest in that the elder Berardi has done a great deal of the public improvement work for the agency. Agency officials say their disposition attorneys have ruled out any conflict with Berardi's since the elder Berardi was awarded his construction contracts through open competitive bidding procedures.

Assuming final agency approval, Adirondack plans to move its passenger terminal operation uptown but will leave its main offices and its maintenance operation for the 70 buses it runs on Central Broadway.

Although the agency has designated Adirondack as the redeveloper, meetings will be held between agency officials and city officials for Augustine to present his case. "All I want is what I think I deserve," said Augustine.

A final decision is expected within the next two weeks.

Cyprus Crisis May Delay Naming of Vice President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford indicated today he plans to announce his choice of a vice president some time in the coming weekend.

Speculation centered on former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as the front runner followed closely by Republican National Chairman George Bush a former Texas congressman and ex-ambassador to the United Nations. Sen. Barry Goldwater R-Ariz. said he believed Bush was a bit ahead.

A White House spokesman said Wednesday that Ford might delay the selection—the with Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Jacob Javits R-N.Y., apparently to discuss the preoccupation with the Cyprus trade bill he wants Congress to approve soon.

As Ford headed out the door of his Alexandria Va., home for this morning to drive to work policy reviews with Secretary Alexander M. Haig to stay on Nixon's commitment to asked when he would make the before a meeting with represen-announcement. "No earlier than the weekend," he replied.

tatives of the National Association of County Officials.

Ford met Wednesday with 30 governors and mayors to solicit their views on subjects ranging from the economy to revenue of the year and that Ford would share. They emerged from their meetings with glowing reports of Ford's emphasis on a new and more cooperative federal relationship with local governments.

At the same time the mayors and governors were told candidly by Ford that he has "no magic formula to turn off a spigot and stop double-digit inflation."

The President, who also is considering the shape of his cabinet, had an afternoon meeting on his schedule with traditional Korean Secretary R-HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who an administration source said probably would be the first of the old Nixon Cabinet to leave.

Press Secretary Jerry ter-Horst said Ford had asked Alexander M. Haig to stay on Nixon's commitment to "for the duration" as White visit Japan late this year.

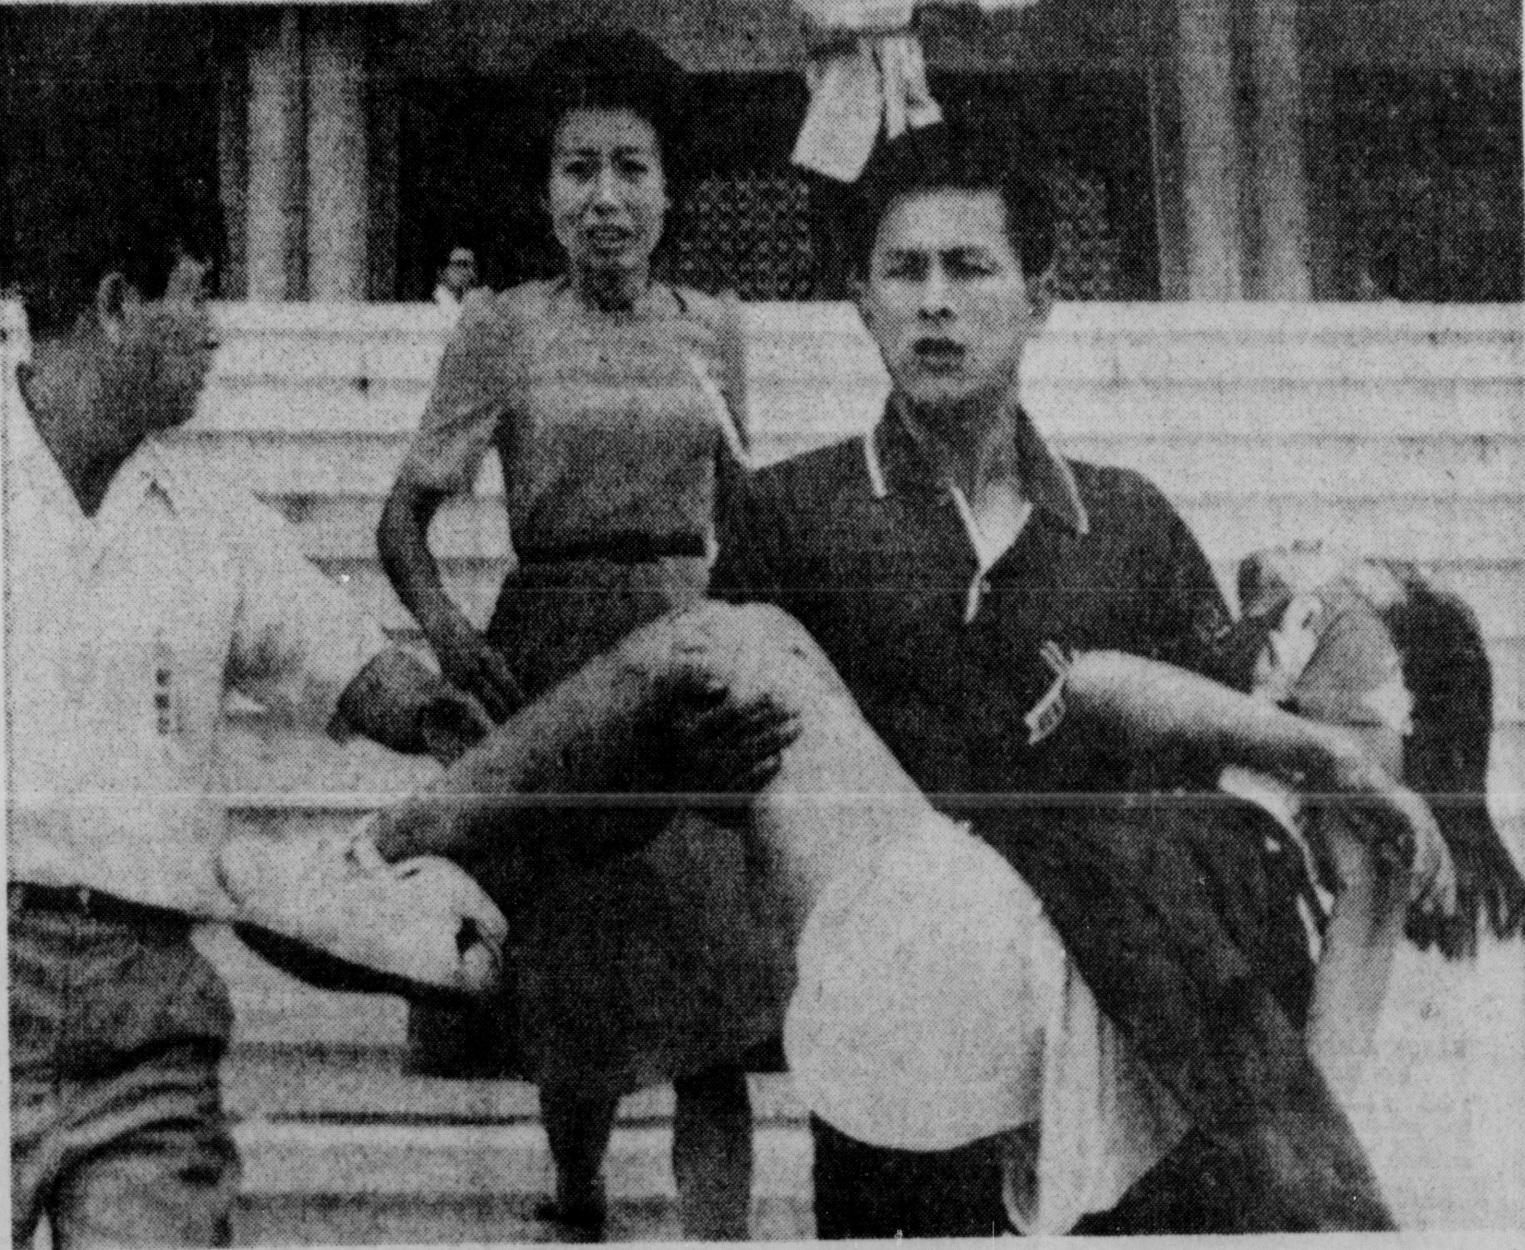

House chief of staff and that Haig had accepted.

An administration source said members of the cabinet were likely to leave by the end of the year and that Ford would make replacements in a gradual way.

Besides considering his selection of a vice president and problems of the economy, Ford talked at length with top aides as well as by telephone with British leaders about Cyprus Wednesday and said later "I think we did all right" in dealing with the first international emergency of his administration.

He also is planning the first trip of his presidency. He goes to Chicago Monday to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars, where he is expected to nominate former Rep. Richard Roudebush of Indiana to head the Veterans Administration.

His first foreign trip was announced Wednesday, renewal of Nixon's commitment to "for the duration" as White visit Japan late this year.

KILLED BY ASSASSIN — Chang Dong-hwa, a 17-year-old high school girl, is carried from National Theater in Seoul, Korea, after a gunman fired several close range shots at South Korean President Park Chung-hee. The girl was killed instantly and Park's wife, who was injured, died six hours later in Seoul National University hospital. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Assassin Kills Park's Wife

SEOUL (UPI) — A gunman today shot and killed the wife of South Korean President Park Chung-hee and a teenage schoolgirl in an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Park as he delivered a nationally televised speech in a crowded theater.

The would-be presidential assassin, a suspected member of an antigovernment youth group, was wounded by security guards and taken into custody.

Mrs. Park, 49, admired by many Korean women as a model of true national beauty, was struck in the head by a bullet intended for her husband. The gunman ran screaming down the aisle in the crowded theater where Park was delivering a speech commemorating Korea's liberation from Japan in World War II.

Before the eyes of the 2,500 persons in the audience and untold thousands watching on television, the gunman opened fire at the podium.

Park ducked behind the lectern and moments later his wife slumped to the floor, mortally wounded.

Another bullet struck a 17-year-old high school girl seated in the third row.

Mrs. Park died in Seoul National University hospital six hours after unsuccessful surgery to save her life. The school girl, Chang Dong-hwa, was killed instantly.

Mrs. Park, considered a national beauty, loved to wear traditional Korean clothing and rarely was seen in Western dress. She cut a graceful figure in her chimachogori—Korean coat and skirt.

Park later reappeared in the National Theater and announced calmly, "Now I will continue my speech."

The audience cheered loudly when he concluded his talk urging North Korea to discontinue aggressive designs and "make sincere efforts for normalization of the south-north dialogue."

Witnesses said the assailant, dressed in a dark suit, fired the first shot from a seat only a few yards from the speakers' platform. Park appeared startled and fell back as if hit.

Then the gunman stood up and fired more shots. This time Mrs. Park dropped her head and fell, the witnesses said.

Tapes May Mean Millions to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite claims by his staff that he was "virtually wiped out" by a $476,000 back tax bill, former President Richard M. Nixon's resignation may have made him worth millions.

His status as the only president to resign makes his presidential tapes and documents worth far more to libraries, historians, collectors and publishers than the $567,000 his vice presidential papers were appraised at five years ago.

The White House said Tuesday that Nixon's tape recordings are his personal property, except for those Watergate-related tapes subpoenaed by prosecutors. "The tapes not subpoenaed and not relevant to the Watergate inquiry belong to the President (Nixon)," said White House Press Secretary Jerald terHorst.

When Nixon said in April he would pay taxes the Internal Revenue said he owed because of disallowed deductions, spokesman Gerald L. Warren said Nixon would be "almost virtually wiped out," that he is "going to have to borrow a substantial amount in order to meet this obligation."

One of the disallowed deductions was for the gift to the National Archives of his vice presidential papers, valued by Chicago appraiser Ralph Newman in 1969 at more than half a million dollars.

Nixon said last year he would "be glad" to take the papers back "because I think they are worth more than that."

A Montreal newspaper reported Sunday that a group of businessmen offered Nixon $1 million for his vice presidential papers.

A spokesman for the group, Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., was quoted by the Sunday Express that "They instructed me to tender Nixon an offer of $1 million for his vice presidential papers, with $200,000 to be paid immediately and the remainder to be paid within 15 days after acceptance of the offer."

The newspaper said if Nixon accepts, the documents would be published in book form through a syndicate.

Another of Nixon's potential assets are the memoirs he is expected to write, which would no doubt surpass in sales his "Six Crises" volume published in the early 1960s when he was between offices.

terHorst gave no details Tuesday on when and how the tapes, now in Secret Service custody, would be delivered to Nixon.

The Nixon tapes, documents and other presidential memorabilia would presumably go to the Nixon library, which will be built for an estimated $8 million in voluntary contributions.

Aside from the the Watergate-related tapes, which eventually forced Nixon out of office, historians would find immense value in Nixon's recorded thoughts on the historic events of his administration that took place during the spring of 1971 and July of 1973 when the tapes were operating in the Oval Office and his private Executive Office Building hideaway.

Decisions made during that time included his trips to Russia and China, imposition of wage-price controls and the end of the Vietnam war and return of prisoners of war.

ABA Will Oppose Immunity

HONOLULU (UPI) — The outgoing president of the American Bar Association is predicting approval of a resolution opposing legal immunity for former President Richard M. Nixon.

The resolution before the ABA's 340-member House of Delegates today does not mention Nixon by name. But President Chesterfield Smith said the measure resulted from Watergate disclosures and was drafted by a committee with Nixon in mind.

The resolution said, the ABA should continue "its dedication to the principle of fair, just and impartial application and enforcement of the law regardless of the position or status of any individual alleged to have violated the law."

In an interview, at the ABA's annual convention Smith said,

"The resolution should not mention anyone by name. Although it is aimed at the revelations about Nixon, it enunciates a general principle of law."

Smith predicted that a majority of the members of the House of Delegates would approve the resolution, making it the official stand of the ABA. "But I've been wrong before," Smith said.

Another resolution calling upon the ABA to "resolve that the decision of the special prosecutor whether to prosecute Richard Nixon for crimes or misdemeanors should be based solely on a determination of whether he has committed a crime or misdemeanor for which he could be convicted."

was rejected by the committee.

In its report, the committee, chaired by William R. Smith Jr., Tampa, Fla., said that resolution "would deny to the citizen in question considerations to which others similarly situated are entitled, no matter what their situation may be."

Kahane Protests Kissinger Actions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, former leader of the militant Jewish Defense League, Wednesday said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would be the target of a series of demonstrations because of Kissinger's handling of the Mideast crisis and his alleged failure to aid Soviet Jews.

"It's about time the myths of Kissinger as savior of Israel and the free world are punctured," Kahane declared as 100 chanting, singing and sign carrying supporters pressed around him upon his arrival at Kennedy Airport from Tel Aviv.

"Henry Kissinger is our target now," said Kahane, who said he expected "protests loud, angry and legal" would be held against Kissinger at the U.S. mission to the U.N., Kissinger's offices at the State Department and "possibly at his home."

"There will be more demonstrations in the next few weeks than he has ever seen before," said Kahane. "He's going to find out what demonstrations are."

Kahane, who faces arms smuggling charges in Israel, did not say when the demonstration would be held.

Kahane charged that Kissinger is "leading Israel to concessions (to the Arabs) which it knows are suicide and, in a reference to Soviet Jews, asserted that the he is "sacrificing people behind the Iron Curtain" in his efforts for detente.

Kahane left New York for Israel in June, 1972, to take up residence and was an unsuccessful candidate last year for the Israeli parliament.

Kahane said Israeli authorities allowed him to leave on condition he return for his Nov. 17 trial on the gun smuggling charge.

Violation? ... Could Be

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Hirschfeld may have violated federal law in accepting contributions from Israeli sources for his campaign for the U.S. Senate. But nobody knows for sure.

The Democratic State Committee received conflicting advice from the Government Accounting Office, Democratic National Committee and the U.S. Justice Department, committee workers said Wednesday.

The national committee and the GAO said it would be a conflict of interest for a lawmaker who considers foreign policy to accept money from foreign sources. After the national fundraising telethon, the Democratic National Committee returned money to Canadian citizens for this reason.

Late Wednesday afternoon, workers in state committee headquarters sought the opinion of the U.S. Justice Department. The advice was different.

"They said that the contribution might be legal if the person is acting on his own as an individual and not on behalf of the country," said Sandra DeLeeuw of the party's state committee.

"If he got the money improperly, he's got to return it," said Joseph Crangle, chairman of the state committee.

Hirschfeld, the millionaire owner of a parking garage building company in Brooklyn, said he received more than $50,000 from residents of Israel.

The State Board of Elections is investigating Hirschfeld's offer of contributions to opponents in the senatorial contest. Hirschfeld has said that he offered money to former U.S. Rep. Allard Lowenstein before Lowenstein dropped out of the senatorial race.

The contribution has become an issue in the three-way race for the Democratic senatorial nomination among Hirschfeld, former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of Manhattan and Syracuse Mayor Lee Alexander.

Crangle said he also would speak to U.S. Rep. Hugh Carey about loans by Carey's brother to Carey's campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor.

At issue is $225,000 in loans since June 1, when the state's law on campaign financing went into effect. According to the law, loans not repaid by certain dates are considered contributions.

The law establishes a $105,000 limit on contributions to a candidate by members of his family. Crangle said he would discuss the repayment of the loan.

Veterans' Group Finds a New Home

KINGSTON
Joyce-Schirick Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1386 has finally found a home.

The veterans organization will be moving into the Michael J. Perry property on East Chester Street By-Pass — formerly Guido's and more recently the Dutch Cupboard — sometime next month.

"I hate to see it go," said Building Committee chairman Robert Scanlon. But in fact the veterans have been working on this move for at least the past five years.

Not that the present post home off Delaware Avenue wasn't sufficient. It was more than sufficient; ideal might be the better word but the fact of the matter was the building the VFW had occupied since 1946 was in the right of way of the proposed Kingston North-South Arterial and as such it had to go.

And so did the 700 some members of the veterans organization, the largest in Ulster County. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, as per plan, purchased the building from the veterans for $90,000 in the late 1960's. According to plan, work was to commence on the arterial in the early 70's — the city gave the state formal approval in 1970 — but work was delayed again and again.

The VFW, however, proceeded with its plans to relocate but it too ran into delays. The first proposal was to build a new post home. The location was to be the rear of Cornell Park off Wurts Street on property donated for that purpose to the VFW by Miss Mathilda Rice.

Some residents in the neighborhood protested. There were three separate court decisions, all in favor of the VFW. But in the end, the membership voted not to relocate on the Rice property.

There was a dormant period of several months and the search resumed. Construction of a new building was ruled out. Building costs, excluding land, had escalated to over $150,000 and the Post had something over $90,000, plus interest to work with.

The Perry property on East

Chester Street By-pass was discussed several times by members of the Building Committee.

There were however, two main objections. The initial asking price of $125,000 was considered too steep for the VFW. The location not entirely desirable either, to a membership consisting mostly of Kingstonians. Three votes of that membership were taken before final, near unanimous approval last month.

Scanlon, who chaired the original Building Committee that built the banquet hall, entrance foyer, new lavatory facilities and the new kitchen, at an estimated cost of $80,000, in the early '60s, in the present building, spearheaded the final drive that brought the VFW to the Perry Building on East Chester By-Pass.

Noting the objections of some Kingston members, Scanlon, said, "all in all it's a good piece of property on a main highway with access to all other main roads."

Scanlon says the Post plans to spend "about $17,000 more" to air condition the building, put some aluminum siding around the soffits and move the monument from in front of the old post home to the new one.

A flag pole with lights will also be installed along with shrubs. With a selling price of $90,000, the VFW will have almost $125,000 in the Perry property.

Members of the building committee included Thomas Hughes, Vernon Radel, Thomas Gully, Eugene Broadhead and Donald Genthner, who headed it for several years. City Judge Hubert A. Richter serves as judge advocate for the Post and is its legal advisor.

Perry, athletic director at Ulster County Community College during its years as a basketball power, is currently on a leave of absence from that post.

RR Crossings...Hearing

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ said Board President Siegfried Bart of the number of crossings.

The New Paltz Board of Education scheduled a public hearing for Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 7 p. m. on the crossing of "unguarded" railroad crossings by school buses, at its meeting Wednesday night.

The public hearing was made necessary by state law which will take effect Oct. 1, for bidding such crossings unless the board of education has decided Wednesday night not to authorize them after public hearing.

The public hearing will be held at the Duzine School, preceding the regular meeting to be held there in keeping with a new board policy of holding its meetings throughout the district.

The question of crossing railroad tracks is not a minor one in New Paltz. According to Business Administrator Frank Hamilton's figures, the district now has 23 buses which total 40 such crossings on their runs.

"In all cases, its pretty impractical not to do this," commented Hamilton. The new law empowers the school board to authorize the crossings on the basis of practicality.

"It's a much more formidable problem than I envisioned."

ception to an article in the July 14 edition of the Daily Freeman about the arbitration being sought by the New Paltz United Teachers Union over Hicken's decision to relieve Frank Davis of his duties as high school varsity basketball coach.

Hicken said his remarks, particularly those implying that there were "other reasons" for Davis' dismissal, were as a basketball coach, were "taken out of context," and that the article "smacks of yellow journalism."

"It's categorically erroneous in terms of the general thrust of the article," said Hicken. The board authorized Hamilton to advertise for bids on the development of recreational areas and athletic fields at the high school. Two new fields, for practice and recreation, are to be put in.

John Ford was appointed coordinator of athletic events at the high school. Hicken said they had candidates for the athletic director's post, but did not get a man they wanted, and decided to appoint Ford a coordinator to help new High School principal Kenneth Salinger.

'Leash Law' Approved

RED HOOK The Red Hook Town Board approved a new and revised dog control ordinance at its meeting Tuesday night.

The new "leash law," which is to take effect on Monday, amends certain sections of the existing ordinance that deal with fees and penalties.

Essentially, the ordinance is written to control owners as much as their pets. Residents are instructed to prevent their dogs from:

- Causing destruction or damage to private property;
- Kill, injure or harass domestic animals;
- Bark or howl from sunset to sunrise;
- Run at large while in heat;
- Run, injure or kill deer;
- Habitually chase motor vehicles, motorcycles or bicycles.

If an owner permits his dog to "bite, jump on or harass" people (except for trespassers, attackers or persons who provoke a dog by teasing or torturing it), he will be liable to a fine of not more than $100. Violations of any other section of the ordinance carry a fine of not more than $50.

Investigator Is Cleared

NEW YORK (UPI) — Special State Prosecutor Maurice Nadjari has cleared Investigations Commissioner Nicholas Scopetta of any wrongdoing in the alleged backdating of city books, ending a 13-day feud between Scopetta and Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin.

Nadjari blamed the controversy on "communications gaps," and the two combatants promptly made up.

"Our investigation concludes that there was no improper or criminal act committed by the Commissioner of Investigation or his Department," Nadjari told reporters in his office Wednesday.

On Aug. 1, Goldin charged that Scopetta had "instructed" an employee of the comptroller's office, Russell D. Aldag, to backdate entries in ledgers to cover up bookkeeping discrepancies.

Scopetta called the charge "outrageous" and asked Nadjari to launch an immediate investigation.

Wednesday, Nadjari concluded that "the entire controversy resulted from communications gaps on all sides."

According to Nadjari, Aldag had "responded to what he thought was an instruction from Mr. Scopetta and made the entries in an official account ledger."

Subdivision Approval

ACCORD The Rochester Town Planning Board, meeting in regular session Tuesday night, gave its preliminary approval to the Gordon-Pereira Subdivision off Samsonville Road.

The subdivision comprises most of what was once known as Rainbow Acres and will include 30.5 acres of land where 14 private homes will be built. Approval is still needed from the County Health Department and the Town Board.

In other action, Leonard Rider, contractor for Camp Tat-Tov in Kerhonkson, outlined plans for the demolition of the two old wooden buildings at the camp and their replacement with two new ones of concrete block. Planning board approval of preliminary plans was granted.

Charles Gray, a realtor from Stone Ridge, outlined plans for a four-home subdevelopment in Whitfield. A public hearing will be held Sept. 3 at 8 p.m. in the Accord Town Hall. Each lot is over an acre.

Greece NATO Pull Out May Cost U.S. Base Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Greece's breach with NATO over Cyprus threatens to open a gap in the Atlantic alliance's southern flank and raise the possibility the United States might lose important military base rights, Pentagon officials say.

Officials said they were uncertain how far Greece intended to go with its announced plan to pull its military forces from NATO.

Some officials suggested the Greek move might be a maneuver to pressure the United States into taming the Turks, who appear bent on establishing a firm hold over wide areas of Cyprus. In that case the break could be only temporary, they said.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey, a former U.S. ambassador to Cyprus, told newsmen on Wednesday that "we have not as yet formed a judgment as to the full extent of Greece's intentions."

He rejected as "plain baloney" suggestions that the United States was tilting toward either Greece or Turkey, both of which have been U.S. allies for many years.

It was learned that U.S. intelligence forecast early this week that the Turks would launch an offensive to take over the entire northern third of Cyprus from Famagusta on the east coast to Morphou on the west, and divide the island into separate Turkish Cypriot and Greek Cypriot states.

Meanwhile, the United States maintained a low military profile. Defense officials said the 6th Fleet was operating as usual. The aircraft carrier Independence and an amphibious group were reported near Crete, at least a day's sailing time from Cyprus.

The strongest U.S. action taken so far was a warning to both Greece and Turkey that their weapons pipeline from the United States would be cut off if they started fighting each other.

Such a cutoff likely would hurt Turkey more than Greece. The Turks are virtually dependent on the United States for arms, aircraft, ammunition and other war supplies. But the Greeks already have some French weapons and reportedly completed a major deal with France last spring to buy more.

U.S. strategists fear a permanent Greek withdrawal from NATO would, in effect, break the solid line developed over the past 25 years as a defense against possible Soviet military pressure.

They said a break would isolate Turkey and could imperil NATO airbases and other positions there.

Despite longstanding differences, Greek and Turkish military staffs, naval and other forces have cooperated through the years in developing joint plans and operations under NATO.

Pentagon sources said there already has been some impairment in NATO's air defense and communications machinery in the southern region embracing Greece, Turkey and Italy.

Greek denial of NATO and U.S. use of naval, air, and communications bases on her soil could cause serious disruptions, Pentagon officials said.

They said operations of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the eastern Mediterranean, near the volatile Middle East, would be much more difficult without support from facilities in Greece.

Heroin Plot Smashed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A plot to smuggle nearly $113 million worth of heroin into the U.S. has been smashed, federal narcotics officials announced.

John R. Bartels Jr., head of the federal Drug Enforcement Agency, said Wednesday that agents had seized 168 pounds of nearly pure heroin hidden inside custom-built antique furniture, and had arrested four French citizens and an Argentine in connection with the smuggling operation.

The seizure, the result of a joint investigation by the DEA and French authorities, was described by Bartels as "the largest since Turkey banned the growth of opium poppies in 1972," and has raised fears that the Turkey-France-New York drug pipeline has been re-opened.

Bartels said the heroin was traced last Friday to a shipment of imported French furniture stored in a Long Island City, Queens warehouse after one of the suspects, Maurice Schoch, 39, of Nice, France offered to sell American officials information about the drug in exchange for $400,000.

The heroin was 95 per cent pure and was believed destined for New York City streets, where pushers could have sold it for an estimated $112.6 million, Bartels said.

Bartels said the drug haul indicated big drug operators in Marseille were releasing their stores of heroin because the Turkish government has decided to resume the growth of the opium poppy.

"This seizure is a foretaste of things to come," Bartels said.

Arrested Monday night in connection with the drug haul besides Maurice were his brother, Claude Antoine, 29, of Nice, Claude Andre Breteche, 1970 to 1973.

27, of Nice; Albino Nicasio Rivera Garro, 39, of Ivanowsky, La Pampa, Argentina; and French citizen Nadine Marie France Besset, 29, of St. Cloud, Algeria.

The five were charged with possessing heroin with the intent to distribute it and were ordered held in lieu of a total of $9 million bail.

The Schoch brothers, identified as the ring leaders of the operation, and a sister, Denise, were also arrested under a separate 1973 indictment charging them with conspiring to import more than 600 kilograms of heroin into the U.S. from 1970 to 1973.

Two Canadians Are Arrested In Bizarre Case

WATERLOO, N.Y. (AP)—Two Canadian residents, both recent immigrants from Bulgaria, are in custody today in a bizarre case that has State Police investigators puzzled.

Orlin Hriston, 28, was charged with second-degree kidnapping and his apparent victim, Ivan Karastoyanov, 25, was being held as a material witness.

Both men, residents of Toronto, were arrested early Wednesday morning after the van they were in was stopped for a routine check by troopers, near this Finger Lakes community.

The pair was arraigned before Judge John Nicot of Seneca County Court. Hriston was ordered held on $10,000 bail and Karastoyanov on $2,000 bail. They were lodged in the county jail.

Since neither man speaks English, investigators said, an interpreter had to be found before questioning could begin.

New Chapter Begins

Richard M. Nixon's resignation from the office of President was the climactic moment in that tragic drama which had occupied the American stage for such a long, wearying time. What we have witnessed was the orderly transfer of power under the stress of political events which might have caused a cataclysmic upheaval in another nation. The outcome resoundingly proclaims the strength of our system of constitutional democracy.

This was given further emphasis very soon after the resignation speech when Gerald R. Ford, speaking then as President-designate, took the occasion to announce that Dr. Henry A. Kissinger would continue as secretary of state. By this act he symbolically and in fact affirmed the unbroken continuity of the government. The nation's best interests are indeed served by Nixon's departure from the White House. By taking this step he hastened what had by then become his all but inevitable ouster from office, and thus spared the nation the drawn-out trauma of a Senate trial.

Yet however charitably this act of personal sacrifice may be construed, nothing is gained pretending it was only that. Neither compassion nor our desire to have this terrible affair over and done with should be allowed to blind us to the central fact of the matter. This is that Richard Nixon is no longer President of the United States because he committed grave offenses—obstruction of justice, abuses of power—which made him unfit to continue in that office.

Now we begin a new chapter under a new administration headed by Gerald R. Ford. Many difficult and pressing domestic problems confront President Ford and a Congress which is in a mood to collaborate with him in addressing those problems. But it must be remembered that the President and Congress are not all; they are only the cutting edge of our response to the great concerns of the day. We are all challenged, now, to play an effective part as citizens of a nation which must surmount Watergate and get on with the business of democracy.

An Exceptional Woman

We count it an honor to be able to offer a few words of tribute to the late Dr. Virginia Apgar. Though her name was far from being a household word, the "Apgar Score" for judging the condition of newborn babies has had an important impact on families throughout the country.

The tests devised by Dr. Apgar, a renowned professor of anesthesiology, are routinely used in delivery rooms. By applying them a minute and again four minutes after birth, doctors can quickly evaluate an infant's health.

The Apgar Score is thus an extremely valuable tool for the obstetrician.

Dr. Apgar was an exceptional woman in other ways. She headed medical affairs of the National Foundation March of Dimes, was a prolific author of articles dealing with her specialty, and had assisted in the delivery of more than 17,000 babies. Additionally, she was a talented violinist and belonged to a group of people who make their own string instruments. She brought distinction to a profession which still number far too few women among its members.

Bad Taste Wins Out

Bad taste has won out at Gettysburg. A gaudy sight-seeing tower for tourists now dominates the Civil War battlefield where Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous address, and where thousands "gave the last full measure of devotion" to preserve the Union so that "government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

The construction of this 307-foot monstrosity is not the first incursion of bad taste onto that hallowed ground. It is blighted, too, with what one writer describes as a "honky-tonk strip of fried chicken and roast beef sandwich drive-ins and 'fantasyland' roadside tourist traps with giant plastic dwarfs that the Park Service had already allowed to encroach on the main path of Pickett's charge and within yards of the site of President Lincoln's immortal address."

Officials of the U.S. Park Service, to their credit, did object to the obtrusive presence of a sight-seeing tower topping off all these abominations in a place of solemnity. So did the governor of Pennsylvania; so did two secretaries of the interior; so did many historians and persons concerned with preserving the site of that terrible conflict in something reasonably like its original state.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Former presidential aide Charles Colson once considered firing a high-voltage Buck Rogers style cannon at the White House to erase the taped conversations of Richard Nixon.

Such a "Mission: Impossible" would have wiped out the evidence on the White House tapes which led to Nixon's resignation. Colson, however, contends he never seriously pondered putting the scheme into action.

Despite this denial, Colson did meet twice with an industrial research consultant, Gordon Novel, and discussed the possibility of using an experimental "de-gaussing" magnetic pulse at the White House tape storage room. A rough design of the ray gun, named after a magnetic measurement, was even drawn up.

"Novel talked about driving by the White House and demagnetizing all the tapes," Colson told us from prison through friends. "It was something that he said would fire three blocks."

Novel, who is also an electronics expert, told us he was visiting Colson in March on an unrelated legal matter when the talk turned to the tapes.

Colson, he said, told him that tapes at the White House and the CIA "could cause the President's grief." Novel mentioned the "de-gaussing" cannon and Colson urged him to look into it. Colson insists he gave the consultant "no encouragement."

Novel, however, obviously thought he had a mandate from Colson. He journeyed to El Paso, Tex., and spoke with Jack Prentice, innovative research and design chief for Jetco, Inc. Jetco already was marketing a metal detector using "de-gaussing" principles.

Prentice told Novel, and confirmed to us, that he had built a prototype cannon and could construct an operational one for $25,000 to $30,000. Prentice's view was that since the tapes belonged to the President, there would be no crime in erasing them if Colson, acting for the President, okayed it.

The Jetco specialist drew up a simple plan for the "de-gaussing cannon," using capacitors, a switch, a parabolic reflector and a special heat-resistant coil. The electronic artillery piece could be housed in a van, or mounted in a light plane or helicopter.

On March 21, Novel wrote Colson that he would "forward by hand courier the known facts on the El Paso erasure matter, 'the code name for the de-gaussing'."

Shortly thereafter, the industrial consultant flew to Washington again and talked to one of this area's best known electronic men, Allan Bell, president of Dektor Counterintelligence and Security. Bell threw cold water on the mission, saying that it was "iffy" and "impractical."

At its best, advised Bell, the bizarre device would obliterate a few layers of tape, leaving the rest intact. At worst, it would destroy huge quantities of other taped material and scramble all computer "memories" in its path.

Since one part of the scheme was to bombard the CIA, the irresistible jolt of magnetism might blot out priceless files of Russian and Chinese agents and other espionage and security matters.

Novel went back to Colson's office with his report. Novel's assessment was that hiding in the heavy woods near the CIA, or "de-gaussing" the tapes from the tank-van while they were in transport, offered a better chance of success than magnetically bombarding the CIA or the White House from a plane.

But as Novel recalls it, they mutually decided not to pursue the plan because of its danger to national security tapes and computers near the target tapes.

Colson scoffs at the idea that the magnetic beam ever came that close to development. I laughed at it," he said. "It was a little bit of comic relief." President Nixon, however, had fears that Colson was a sucker for just such farout ideas. In the transcripts, Nixon said Colson "loves the action . . . Colson would do anything."

Footnote: Colson and Novel also discussed a caper to patch H. R. Haldeman's voice onto a tape along with an actor who would imitate President Nixon and make false confessions. The fake tape would be sent with a phony authenticating note from an allegedly disgruntled Secret Service man to the Senate Watergate Committee which, Colson surmised, would leak it. Then he and Novel would reveal the tape was fraudulent and the hoax would tend to discredit the whole case against Nixon. Colson said it was "true" he discussed this idea. "Wouldn't that be a great gag?" his statement said.

BAKER'S BOMBHELL: Bobby Baker, the former Senate aide who went to prison in a celebrated scandal of the early 1960s, has completed more than half of a book that will embarrass some present senators.

Now a successful businessman, Baker insists he isn't writing a cruel book about those who condemned him. Indeed, the book will contain many warm anecdotes about prominent political figures.

But the book will charge that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., now the Senate's "Mr. Clean," twisted arms for political funds when he was the Republican Senate campaign chairman.

Baker will also chide the present apostle of political reform, Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., for voting consistently against reform in times past. Baker will also point out that Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., who saw no great wrong in President Nixon's conduct, lashed out against the Democrats involved in the comparatively small-potatoes Baker case.

The former Senate boy wonder hopes to publish his book after the din of Watergate dies down.

The Gift of All Time

On the Right

Rodino Vs. Rehnquist

By MORRIE RYSKIND (Substituting for William F. Buckley Jr.)

L'ALLEGRO — Banners were flying from the Professor's house and a jubilant liberal group was shooting off firecrackers from his front lawn. Spying me, he gave me a neighborly "Hi!" — something he hadn't done since he learned I had voted for Goldwater in 1964.

"What's up?" I asked. "A belated Fourth of July celebration — or is it the North Vietnam New Year?"

"Neither," he smiled. "It's for the Rodino Committee, whose non-partisan ruling must surely rank with Magna Carta. The days of the tyrant are numbered — Selah!"

"Arg you that certain Nixon will be ousted?"

"No sweat," said the Prof. "We have a majority of 50 non-partisan Democrats in the House, and all we need are 9 GOP votes in the Senate."

"Sing Hallelujah! The Washington Post will not need to be printed underground; the big three networks will be free to criticize any Republican; and we professors will be able to voice our opinions without fear of being awakened in the night by the OGPU and sent to the Bastille! Won't you at last concede that if Humphrey or McGovern were in the White House, we wouldn't be in this sordid mess?"

"I couldn't agree with you more," I said — and I meant it, because Demos are very selective about their indictments. What is a petty misdemeanor for the donkey becomes a high crime for the elephant.

G. E. McGovern is trying to settle his campaign debts to airplanes, hotels, etc. for 50 cents on the dollar — which would make them involuntary contributors. And Hubert has a number of unresolved questions about allegedly illegal contributions to the extent of $200,000. It seems that his campaign manager has destroyed his records and taken the Fifth. That might make Hubert culpable were he a Republican — but he isn't — so shut up already!

IL PENSOROSO — The house up the street where some Republicans were meeting was more like a wake. Women were sobbing openly. The men were bitter — even those who didn't like some Nixon policies thought the hearings a travesty, a carefully-planned scenario whose motif was, according to one frank Virginian, "Never mind the facts—Just get Nixon out!"

These folks questioned Rodino's "scrupulous fairness." They recalled that the Demo impeachers had all voted against Jerry Ford's confirmation, though even Rodino conceded Ford's ability and integrity. And that Rodino had boasted, even before the hearings began, that he would deliver a solid Demo vote. He did, too, even if the ranks broke after the primary object had been achieved.

Seldom have so many crocodile tears been shed. Father Drinan of Mass. told of how he wrestled with his conscience over the indictments — but I doubt he put up a real fight, since he had been demanding impeachment for over a year. And ditto for California's Waldie.

It also applies to many others in the House — and even to some Senators . . . And how on earth will the House members be able to hear all those tapes by Aug.

19? They will depend on the data of the 104 aides of the Judiciary Committee — who were basically surrogate prosecutors.

My thanks to an attorney, R. M., for this apropos phrase from Pascal: "It is not permitted to the most equitable of men to be a judge in his own cause." And allow men to salute the action of one of whom Pascal would have approved: Justice Rehnquist of the Supreme Court disqualified himself from any decisions regarding Watergate because of his friendship with some of the potential defendants.

The corollary, of course, is that he would have acted likewise had he been unfriendly and made derogatory attacks on them.

Had that honorable procedure been followed here, however, there was the great danger that there wouldn't have been left a majority of the Rodino Committee to vote for impeachment—and bingo! would go the carefully-planned scenario.

So take Rodino for fairness if you will — I'll take Rehnquist.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

We're a Very Lucky Bunch

WASHINGTON — The past weeks have seen the mortal face done to a point approaching burlesque. Politicians and journalists can't phrase a sentence without lugubrious ad-versions to the constitutional crisis during which we must be aware of our grave and awesome responsibilities in this sad hour, etc., etc., blah, blah, blah. They should hang less crepe and more bunting.

Let's get out the Red, White and Blue and do a little restrained celebrating, for in driving Richard Nixon from office we're observing our bicentennial anniversary in the most fitting way possible. His downfall is our reconsecration of the organized liberty which we call our Republic.

The official bicentennial is a flop, not because the people running it are bumbling klutzes, but because what we wish to celebrate can't be expressed by building convention centers, dedicating state parks or restoring colonial houses. The American Revolution wasn't some project financed by the FHA. It was first a work of the mind and the spirit. The building program and the bidding on the construction contracts came later.

Patriotic oratories may mark the 200th anniversary by imploring us to reverence the Constitution, but until Watergate most Americans were like Christians in the days before the Bible was translated out of Latin into the modern vernacular. We revered the Constitution, we just didn't know what was in it. Until six weeks ago, how many knew that the House of Representatives impeaches and the Senate convicts? How many even knew what the word impeachment meant, much less what is the sense and the meaning of the Fourth Amendment?

The nation could hardly come to judge that Richard Nixon had offended the Constitution until we learned what was in it. So you can thank the former President for that. Instead, though, we dwell on the shame and tragedy of it. It doesn't occur to us that, given our inattention to public affairs, we're a very lucky bunch. From the time of George III to our own day we've never once had to overthrow that long series of men elected to preside over us. Thirty-six winners and one foul ball. Not a bad record.

However, there are some who believe that the events of the last two years have badly weakened the Presidency. That's an understandable but unthinking response. We can hope for no better outcome to these troubles than a weakened Presidency.

Rather than giving ourselves over to stuffy ululations and howls because some of the guilt has been rubbed off the throne, we would do better to guard against a reaction of excessive veneration toward President Jerry Ford.

The worst thing we can do is to define Richard Nixon as "the bad President" and blame what has happened on defects in his character. Hate, revile or condemn Nixon as you will, but also consider how the Presidency had been warped to allow him to act as he did for so long.

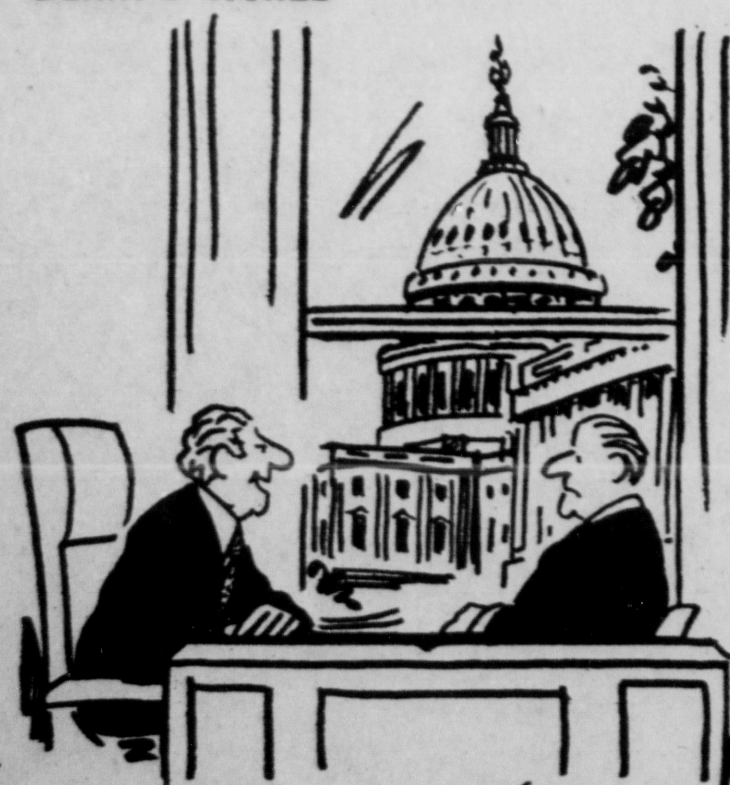

After George III was handed his walking papers, the men of that time, at least some of them, recognized that the creative work of nation building was still to be done. They regarded the fall of the King as no more than an opportunity to set to work — and that may be one of the reasons why the losers in that struggle were treated with leniency, compared to what happened to the losers in subsequent revolutions.

It follows that, if we accept Nixon's fall not as the denouement of a shabby career but as a chance to reconstitute our system, then we will have a care about vengeance, about exacting the last measure of punishment the criminal law allows. If we can't have amnesty, let's have amnesia so that we aren't distracted from asking the more important questions — about how we can insure ourselves against other Presidents making war without the consent of the representatives of the people, against other Presidents defiling our privacy and turning the power of this mighty state against its own citizens.

Don't answer by saying that Nixon's being brought down shows that all is working as it should. In the final sense he brought down upon himself his expulsion from office. We didn't do it. Neither did Congress or the courts or Sam Ervin or Judge Sirica. If Mr. Alexander Butterfield hadn't goofed and blurted out the existence of those tapes, Richard Nixon would still be President.

Planning Board Action in Rosendale

By CARL GRAHAM

ROSENDALE
The Rosendale Town Board Wednesday night filled two of the three vacancies on the Town Planning Board.

Named by unanimous votes were Fred Klepers, who will serve out the unexpired term of Planning Board Chairman Ted Musal, and Thomas Minor, who fills the unexpired term of William Dunn. No replacement was named for Thomas Delora Sr., but Supervisor Richard Glazer said he had been in touch with five persons from the High Falls area about taking over the vacancy. Delora and Musal resigned in May, citing the press of private business as their reasons.

Pat Hoffman of Maple Hill asked why she had received no response to her request to be considered for a planning board vacancy. Glazer said the board was already heavily weighted in the Bloomington area, but had only one person from Tillson and none at all from High Falls. He also cited Mrs. Hoffman's real estate business as a possible conflict of interest, but Councilman Karl Stroble and Councilman William Ritter both said her real estate work was not a factor in their decision. Stroble said he had voted for Minor because he was impressed with his educational background. Mrs. Hoffman's husband than said he resented the board's attitude, saying it was a question of integrity and that several persons with real estate backgrounds had served on the planning board in the past. He also said his educational qualifications were every bit as good as Minor's. Mrs. Belle Sundeen, representing the Irate Consumers of Ulster County, asked the board to join in a complaint to the Public Service Commission against the fuel adjustment rate increase of Central Hudson. She said that joining in would only involve the complaint before the PSC, which is a necessary preliminary to the suit the consumer group intends to bring against Central Hudson for making the increases. The board would not become involved in the lawsuit against the utility firm, she said.

The board decided to seek legal advice before taking any action in the matter. The board, citing Chairman Robert Strini of the Recreation Committee for good work, voted to pay him $500 annually in two installments. Stroble said that Strini on several occasions had spent money from his own pocket and had used his car working for the recreation program.

After a lengthy discussion, the board voted to allow the owners of A La Bonne Table Restaurant to sponsor a puppet show for children at the town recreation area, which adjoins the restaurant. The show will be held Saturday, but must be held either before the recreation area opens at noon or after it closes at 8 p.m. The sponsor will be required to pay 10 percent of all receipts in excess of $75 for use of the area and must help clean up afterward.

Edward Connolly, chairman of the Board of Assessors, said the town had been granted a special increase of one point (12 to 13) in the equalization rate applied to public utilities in the town, thus enabling the town to collect more taxes from them. Valuations of property owned by utilities such as railroads is set by the state and cannot be changed by the town, but the increase in the equalization rate means a slightly higher rate per thousand of assessed valuation, Connolly said.

Glazer voiced strong objections to signs being posted in many public places in the town advertising a slate of candidates for union office. Town Clerk Catherine O'Leary was directed to send a letter to the candidates, asking them to remove the signs.

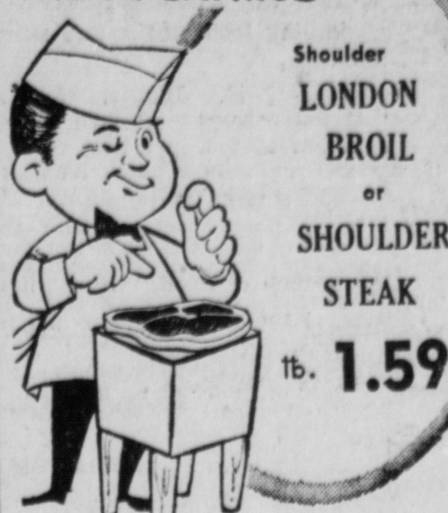

A resolution to change the town constabulary into a police department was deferred because Town Attorney Martin Tully was not at the meeting. Glazer said he had also discussed the possibility of merging the town and village police departments if the change is made, and that Village Mayor Robert Sheehan had expressed interest in a possible merger.

Man Sentenced in Shooting

KINGSTON
George Calhoun, 35, of Ellenville, who pleaded guilty in June to manslaughter in the second degree in connection with the shooting death of his wife, Rebecca, was sentenced Wednesday in County Court by Judge Raymond J. Mino to an indeterminate sentence with a maximum imprisonment of ten years at Dannemora State Prison.

Calhoun was accused of shooting his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun on Oct. 31, 1973, in their 181 Center Street, Ellenville apartment. He was subsequently indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury for murder and on the recommendation of District Attorney Francis J. Vogt was allowed to plead to a lesser count of manslaughter because there was reportedly no apparent intent to commit a crime.

Calhoun could have been sentenced to up to 15 years in prison, according to Judge Mino.

At the time of the arrest, Ellenville Police Chief William Trapnell said Mrs. Calhoun had been shot once in the upper chest with the automatic shotgun.

Trapnell said the shooting occurred at about 7:15 p. m. and that Calhoun turned himself in at the police station at about 7:30 p. m.

Counsel for Calhoun, Melvin Higgins, described Calhoun's condition at the time of the incident as "gross intoxication." He asked court consideration of the defendant because he "will spend the rest of his adult life trying to make up to his six children and stepchildren, what they are now deprived of — a mother and a father." Higgins said Calhoun had always shouldered his responsibilities and had no prior criminal record with the exception of one public intoxication charge.

Judge Mino, mentioning that

Calhoun took the life of his wife, also noted that the children now have a suitable home with a relative.

Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh represented The People at the sentencing.

Decision Reserved In CSEA Case

KINGSTON
A three-man tribunal conducted individual, hour-long hearings Wednesday for seven suspended members of Ulster County Unit of Civil Service Employees Association at the Holiday Inn here.

Decision was reserved following the day-long hearings of the seven, all of whom were charged with alleged denunciation of CSEA, when earlier this year they expressed support for a rival union.

One of those suspended, Walter Parslow, former unit president previously requested details of the conduct of the hearing from CSEA.

The hearing officers, including Ronald Colby, Alfred June and James Morse, indicated that each case was considered individually and that each of the suspended members had opportunity to rebut the alleged charges. Transcripts of the entire proceedings were made.

It was pointed out by one of the hearing officers that each case was considered on its individual merits and that the group was not to be judged as a whole.

Those originally suspended included Parslow, Julia Jansen, Arthur Markle, Harold Pinckney, Barbara Parish, Benjamin Hunter, Henry Gallagher and Donna Miller. Ms. Miller failed to appear at the hearing.

County employees voted earlier this year to keep CSEA as their bargaining representative after their association was challenged by Service Employees International Union. The margin of victory was slim and SEIU took the matter to court where the CSEA victory was upheld. SEIU promised to again seek representation.

Inmate Hurt In County Jail

KINGSTON
A young Newburgh man, convicted June 1 of murdering an elderly cab driver last August, allegedly attacked and struck another inmate in the Ulster County Jail on Monday, breaking the man's jaw, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Deputies said George Carter, 23, struck and broke the jaw of Michael Delancy, 28, of Poughkeepsie, at about 11:15 a. m. Monday in a third floor cell block.

Delancy had been brought to the jail less than 11 hours earlier after being arrested on a charge of obstructing governmental administration. He was being held in lieu of $150 bail. Deputies said a formal complaint has been filed against Carter, charging him with second degree assault.

Delancy was taken to the Benedictine Hospital following the alleged assault, and had to have his jaw wired, according to deputies.

On Tuesday Delancy was released on $150 bail. Carter had been found guilty of robbery and murder in the throat-slashing death of a 64-year-old cabbie in the Town of Marlborough last August. He was in the Ulster County Jail awaiting sentencing.

Deputies said they had no idea what prompted the assault, and said deputies broke up the fight "immediately."

Butternut Knolls

Editor, The Freeman:

Thank you for your excellent article covering the Butternut Knolls controversy which appeared in your Thursday evening, August 8, 1974 edition on Page 21.

Although the members of O.L.I.V.E. very much appreciate the coverage which you have given us, there is one statement contained in your story which is incorrect.

I stated that the New York

City Board of Water Resources had verbally rejected the proposal of the Valda Construction Company of Long Island, and that they had sent a letter to the Town of Olive Planning Board to the effect that not all water courses had been shown on the property, and that they would have to be shown on a revised preliminary plat plan.

I did not "produce a letter from the New York City Board of Water Supply rejecting the proposal by the Valda Construction Company of Long Island because the land is allegedly not suitable for sewerage runoff."

While I am not asking that you print a correction of your statement in the paper, I do want to be on record with you as to the statements which I did make, and those which were incorrectly attributed to me.

Since this matter may very well end up in the State Court System. I have to be very careful regarding statements that are attributed to me, as well as those which I actually make. Once again, may I take this opportunity to congratulate you and your staff for the forthright and in-depth reporting job that has been done on the Butternut Knolls matter. Their thoroughness and objectivity are commendable.

Very truly yours,

The following are excerpts from Exchange Magazine: books, plays and other produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general

"Fifty years ago, in May 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces came upon the corrupt the young, get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their rug-geriness.

Get control of all means of publicity thereby: Get the people's minds off possible.

their government by focusing attention on athletics, sexy extravagance, destroy its credit with books, plays and other produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general

Divide the people into hostile groups, by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding them up to contempt, ridicule and profanity.

Always preach true the breakdown of the old oral fast and as ruthlessly as word, ruggedness, Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless. There you have it . . . its 50 years old, and apparently going well. Fifty years ago it seemed remote, but THINK upon the situation today . . .

Its sure is something well worth thinking about. This was broadcast in Jan. 1973 by WGHQ. It may be worth printing now.

Hounding of Ex-President

Editor, The Freeman:

The pause that follows in the wake of a terrible accident or a crushing and traumatic catastrophe allows the horizon to clear, the eye to focus, the mind to understand. One finds the scales to which he has become accustomed have dropped from his eyes.

If the neurotic hounding, by which Richard Nixon has been driven from office, has the effect of clearing the people's vision, then it will serve the nation.

The experience shows that the press and other media have taken unto themselves rights and privileges not accorded to them by the law and the people and this supplies a perception long needed.

The media are enjoying the vast presumption that they are the non-elected fourth division of a quadripartite government new to the United States. Here this crowd very largely made of non-educated, non-thinking, non-experienced non-patriotic.

(One cannot serve his country or city well unless he loves it.), non-writers, hound dogs of malice, a shower of crackpots and a gaggle of half baked Marxists, sitting in judgment of the men elected to public office. Can one think of a better way of bringing down a representative type of government than this? Except perhaps the one pursued by the Rosenbergs and Ellsberg of getting hold of government documents and passing the same around to suit their whims or their ideology.

Also, it has opened the public's eyes to the general vacuity and worthlessness of their elected representatives in Congress. The moral confusions of Tommy Rainsback point up the drift from our moral moorings. It showed up too the contrived assinities of Ham-

Fish and the shameless emptiness of Gilman.

There is not a decent historian or journalist including perhaps the hysterical James Kilpatrick who cannot come up with hundreds of instances of concealment in the White House. Woodrow Wilson brought the full force of his Princeton training to the telling of direct lies as President and diplomat.

Does one of history's terrible tragedies lie in the fact that Bella Abzug was not around to demand the blood (in her best Ilse Koch manner) of FDR when he lied us into World War II? or of Eisenhower when he had an indictment ready to be submitted, withdrawn because it would have abased the White House. He had previously summarily dismissed the culprit.

Here we have Richard Nixon with as fine a sense of duty as we have had in the White House, driven out in disgrace while the Senators and Representatives elected with great wads of money collected by him sat by, ran away or drove to spear into his side. While he withheld in order to protect, they played the Judas game. Our Lord, a little while before He was crucified said to His disciples in a moment of heartscald "Could not one among you sit one hour with me?"

Well, he's gone and his destroyers and the hypocrites who pay them court are preparing for their next assassination this we know, namely that Richard Nixon will be back and hopefully he will run a non paranoid newspaper based upon a novel proposition, i.e. that every good patriotic American is not another Hitler.

Rosendale Assessments

Editor, The Freeman:

The Board of Assessors of the Town of Rosendale, Edw. Connolly, Percy Quick and George Mollenhauer wish to express their appreciation to the large majority of the taxpayers of the Town of Rosendale for their overwhelming support and acceptance of our efforts to update our roll book and achieve a more equitable situation among the town's taxpayers.

We were dismayed, as were you, by the determinations made by the Board of Review chaired by temporary chairman Nick Gantner with Arthur Dunn chairman attending. They have by their actions made exceptions to the equity established in the whole areas of our town, and have given large land holders unjustifiable decreases in assessments. We consider this not only an affront to the assessors who made their determinations solely on the facts and figures available to them, but also, in our opinion, committed a grave injustice and took a discriminatory action against the large majority of conscientious taxpayers who were willing to assume their fair share of the tax burden of the town.

The town has lost approximately $68,000 in assessed valuation with the subsequent loss of tax dollars. Tax dollars which will have to be absorbed by those already paying their fair share. When we have estates in our town and highway businesses with residences that are decreased and who are now paying less or only a fraction more than the owner of a new home but have as much as four times the value we find it revolting as any taxpayer would. We simply cannot afford a Board which acts contrary to the evidence available to them. The Board of Assessors feels that no one, be he a member of the Town Board, a member of the Board of Review, town businessman or average citizen should or should want to seek to shirk his moral obligation to pay his fair share of the taxes in our community. We encourage all those concerned citizens who are interested, to view the determinations of the Board of Review at the Town Clerk's Office.

The Board of Assessors also wishes to assure the people of the town that will continue their efforts on their behalf, for when all pay their fair share the burden will be lighter for all.

Editor, The Freeman:
In his letter in the August 4 SUNDAY FREEMAN, Frank Fletcher makes an excellent point.

The last time this writer solicited signatures of voters in order to place Socialist Labor Party candidates on the ballot, I collected more names of Ulster County voters than I thought I would.

As of this date (August 5), have commenced circulating petitions to have the names of the Socialist Labor Party candidates (John Emanuel for Governor and Robert E. Massi for U.S. Senator) appear on the November 5 ballot.

It is to be hoped that ALL the parties, including the SLP, do appear on the ballot so that the voters are able to cast their votes for whoever they desire to.

Some Death Rows Growing

The number of condemned criminals awaiting execution across the country has been growing steadily since the Supreme Court overturned capital punishment in June of 1972.

However, because the high court's 5-4 decision did not outlaw capital punishment in absolute terms, many states have passed new laws, hoping to meet the Supreme Court's objections.

Today, at least 156 criminals await execution in 17 states. But it is unlikely they will be put to death until the Supreme Court has ruled on the constitutionality of the new laws.

North Carolina has sentenced 50 convicted murderers and rapists to death, including two brothers and two other men who are father and son.

In Florida, the first state to reimpose the death penalty after the 1972 Supreme Court decision, 30 persons await execution.

Georgia and Massachusetts each have 20 inmates on their death rows.

A UPI survey of all 50 states shows death row or its equivalent is also occupied in New Mexico (5), Alabama (1), Mississippi (1), Ohio (3), Wyoming (4), California (4), Arizona (4), Indiana (2), Oklahoma (4), Louisiana (5), South Carolina (1), Utah (1), and one in the state penitentiary in Texas, but others in Texas county jails are awaiting transfer pending appeal of their cases.

The state whose new law is first in line for a Supreme Court test is North Carolina, where death in the gas chamber is mandatory for all criminals convicted of first degree murder or rape.

The Supreme Court was expected to hear appeals against the state's new law when it reconvenes Oct. 14. The appeals have been filed on behalf of five death row prisoners.

In its 1972 decision, the five justices who were against capital punishment gave various reasons. Only two of the five said death was cruel and unusual punishment and therefore unconstitutional.

Others said it was not applied equally to persons convicted of committing the same crimes. Former President Richard Nixon proposed reinstatement of the death penalty for certain violations of federal statutes, including skyjacking. The bill has been passed in the Senate but has not been acted on yet by the House.

The latest two persons to be condemned were Billy J. Cloman, 19, and Julian P. Turner, 25, of Portland, Ore. They were convicted of murdering a Wyoming rancher and his neighbor, two men who gave the younger men a ride on a snowy night last December.

Cloman and Turner were sentenced during the weekend to die in Wyoming's gas chamber Oct. 10 at the state prison in Rawlins.

The last man executed in the United States was Luis Monge, 48, Denver, who was put to death in Colorado's gas chamber June 2, 1967, for killing his wife and three of his 10 children on June 29, 1963.

Mayor Daley Away From Hall But Still Wields Power

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor judge said Daley would be Philip W. Tone said Daley that time is doubtful . . . "Richard J. Daley, boss of the nation's biggest urban political machine for 20 years, has been away from City Hall for 100 days. But aides say he still firmly holds the keys to power. Daley was stricken May 6 by what doctors say was a minor stroke. He is now recuperating from major surgery. On Monday he turned down an invitation to meet with President Ford and other big city mayors in Washington.

Press aide Frank Sullivan said on Tuesday that the refusal did not mean Daley's condition had deteriorated. He said the mayor continues to convalesce.

Daley underwent surgery June 2 to clear blockage in a neck artery, an operation doctors said would lessen chances of another, more serious stroke. Since leaving Chicago's Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital, Daley has remained at his Grand Beach, Mich., vacation home. He has not been seen publicly, except for brief glimpses as he visited his personal physician, Dr. Thomas J. Coogan Jr., in downtown Chicago.

Exploded Star Secrets Probed

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — American scientists using a balloon-borne x-ray telescope in Canadian skies have probed the secrets of one of the most dazzling sights in space — the Crab Nebula.

Astrophysicists from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology used a gigantic 20-million-cubic-foot helium balloon this week to get a better peak at the exploded star which has fascinated man for 900 years.

The scientists reporting back here said the 1,700-pound unmanned telescope drifted beneath its balloon at 133,000 feet for much of its eight-hour flight. The mission was cut short by two hours when it was feared the payload would drift over a rough, wooded area inaccessible to recovery teams.

Prof. Walter H. G. Lewin, leader of the MIT team, said the payload went up without incident from North Battleford, Saskatchewan, and came down 60 miles northeast of Edmonton, Alberta.

Soon after launch, he said, the telescope lost its telemetry radio link with the ground. But he added that the scientists probably would not lose any scientific information since the telescope also stores data for later retrieval.

The telemetry problem made it difficult to tell if the telescope was pointed properly at its target 5,000 light years away, Lewin said, "but other information indicates it did what it was supposed to."

Synagogue News

Agudas Achim

Aguddas Achim, an orthodox synagogue at 254 Lucas Avenue is the only local synagogue that has daily services. The weekday services are at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. The Friday and Saturday evening services are scheduled at sundown. The Saturday morning services are at 8:30 and Sunday 8 a.m. All services are conducted by Cantor Herman Slomovits. Sabbath candles are to be lighted at 7:40 p.m. Friday.

This week's Bible reading is R'Eh, Chapters 11 through 16 in Deuteronomy. At this services there will be blessing of the New Moon on the month of Elul, the last month of the Jewish Year before Rosh Hashanah.

Cappy Weiner, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Weiner will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah at the Saturday morning service.

Temple Emanuel

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn will conduct Sabbath Services at Temple Emanuel 243 Albany Avenue Friday 7:30 p.m. He will be assisted by Cantor John Park.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Seligman Oppenheimer, Marcus Appel, Pauline Rosenbaum and Meriam Poley.

An Oneg Shabbat will be held after services in Rabbi Bloom Memorial Hall.

Friday, Aug. 23, Rabbi David Max Eichhorn will be guest speaker. His topic will be How to Face Your Child's Inter-marriage.

Persons wishing to enroll their three and four year old children in the Temple Nursery School for the fall session may call Mrs. Jonathan Eichhorn for further information.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m. followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday morning, followed by a Kiddush. Services are conducted by Dr. Harry Z. Schectman, rabbi of the congregation, and the liturgy is chanted by members of the congregation.

This Friday evening, Rabbi Schectman will deliver his last sermon in this congregation, as he is retiring from congregational activities. The title of his sermon will be Worthwhile Living.

The Mourners Prayer will be offered for the following whose yahrtzeiten will be observed in the coming week: Chaye E. Brossman, Philip Brummel, Lillian B. Fein, Jennie Karp, Benjamin Landman, Fannie Rabinowitz, Abraham Meyer Wilner and Hilda Wilpan.

During the Saturday morning services, the bridegroom, David Alan Siegel, who will marry the daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. Schectman, Judith, will be called to the Torah, as is traditionally done before a wedding ceremony, and is called an "Offruft". A Kiddush will be served in honor of the "Offruft" after the services.

The prayer of the new month of Elul will be offered at the Saturday morning services. The new month begins Sunday and Monday.

Candidate Hits Inflation Issue

KINGSTON supply to reduce inflation," said Alfred J. Libous says he's not a big spender, and because of that is confident he'll be heading to Washington next year as first term Representative from the 27th Congressional District.

Second term mayor of Binghamton, Libous was in Kingston Tuesday — for the first time ever, he said — to meet the press and map campaign strategy with local aides. He will fight it out with four other persons for the Republican nomination to occupy the House seat being vacated this year by retiring eight term congressman Howard W. Robison.

Libous told reporters at the Gov. Clinton Hotel that he considers the economy — and the accompanying woes of inflation and unemployment — to be the single major issue on the minds of voters in the 27th District, and throughout the country, this year.

If it comes down to a choice between Libous and Broome County Executive Edwin Crawford in the Republican primary in September (and many believe it will), the 45-year-old Binghamton mayor predicts he'll win because of his record on the economy. He pointed out that his administration lowered taxes in Binghamton last year by $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, while the Crawford-led Broome County Legislature imposed a one per cent sales tax.

Crawford is saying that we must control taxes. But while he's saying that, he raises the sales tax in Broome County," said Libous. "One thing we don't need is big spenders in Washington."

Although Libous labeled past attempts to free wages and prices "a failure," he said he would consider "partial, temporary controls, especially on big business" to reduce the inflationary spiral.

"I disagree that you have to control and cut back your episode has created a new demand on politicians to be forthright and honest. "Any public official should be accountable to the public." In that same vein, he proposed that all Congressional committee meetings be opened to the public so the people can see for themselves "what's going on."

The 27th District includes Broome and Sullivan Counties, as well as parts of Chemung, Tompkins, Delaware, Tioga and Ulster Counties. Libous likened the physical layout of the district to a "submarine sandwich;" admitted that one man could not possibly represent all the people in the district adequately; and said to expect one man to do so is "unfair" to both the representative and the people.

Nevertheless, Libous (a grocer by trade) said he intends to return to Kingston during the campaign, and will try to touch base with as many people as possible in the 13 western towns of Ulster County that he hopes to represent in Congress next year.

He called, too, for greater control over problems and expenditures by local municipalities. "We must cut the cord that holds municipalities to the federal government," said Libous, "we should return to local control and avoid regionalization."

Libous described himself as an "extreme liberal" in the areas of youth, recreation and senior citizens, but a "hard-nose" when it comes to spending the taxpayers' money.

He also noted that the Watergate issue, in his opinion, will have no effect on the outcome of the local 27th District election, and he added that it wouldn't have had any effect even had President Nixon not resigned. But he added, "People shouldn't give up on government."

He agreed that the Watergate

Fledgling Verrazzano College at Spa Site

A Modest Start but Education History Looms

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Fledgling Verrazzano College, conceived nine years ago, is scheduled to finally open its doors this fall, with about 50 students and eight full-time faculty members.

The beginning is modest, Verrazzano President Aldo S. Bernardo admits. But he predicts the school's concept "will probably make education history."

The college is a traditional four-year institution, but with heavy emphasis on Mediterranean studies and their relevance today.

The junior year is spent abroad in one of six Mediterranean countries—Italy, Spain, France, Greece, Israel or Egypt. Selection of courses outside a student's major is carefully supervised.

"We will have no departments, organize hours outside the major area of study very carefully, get at the business of values, of identity, of relevance," Bernardo said. "If we can tell you all about yourself as a Western person, you don't need to know anything else."

Credibility and money loom as Verrazzano's biggest challenges.

The school's first-year enrollment is 80 to 100 students less than Bernardo had anticipated, with tuition at $2,250 a year and Verrazzano picked up a ready-room and board at $1,100. But the structures needs major repairs.

In addition, Verrazzano is renting some of the structures back to Skidmore at an estimated $500,000 a year until the old school's move is completed.

"If we had $4.5 million today, we would have an absolutely debt-free unit," Bernardo said. "I think if we can only get enough funds to get us through this year, then we're on our way."

Verrazzano, named after the 16th-century Italian explorer who discovered New York Bay, is described by its founders as the first American college backed exclusively by persons of Italian heritage. Bernardo denies suggestions that the college has some underworld backing and might be converted into a massive gambling complex if state gambling laws were repealed. The Verrazzano campus is a short stroll from Saratoga's thoroughbred and harness racing tracks.

"As far as I'm concerned, you know my credentials and you know how sincere I am about a top-flight program," Bernardo said. "If this thing is going to be (Verrazzano being converted into a gambling complex), then I'm going to be the first to man the forts. We wouldn't be so tight right now if we were backed by he Mafia. The whole thing is rather ridiculous."

Bernardo, who holds a Ph.D.

from Harvard University and taught Italian there for three years, came to Verrazzano from the State University of New York at Binghamton, where he had spent 24 years. He rose from assistant professor of Romance Languages in 1950 to chairman of the Division of Humanities in 1959. He was also a Guggenheim Fellow and recipient of a Fulbright research grant.

Bernardo also points to the J. Riccardo and Ford Motor list of distinguished men who Co. President Lee A. Iacocca.

All students will be required to minor in Mediterranean studies and major in either humanities, social sciences or sciences. Four years of a foreign language, in addition to the junior year abroad, are required. Bernardo says he sees the college ultimately growing to a maximum of 1,000 students, members of Verrazzano's National Campaign Committee are never greater than 15-1.

Transit Woes In Montreal And Toronto

By United Press International
Transportation in Canada's two largest cities is limping along as an illegal strike by Montreal subway employees entered its second week and a walkout by Toronto transit drivers shut down all bus, subway and streetcar operations there for a fourth day.

With no end in sight to either strike, residents used their cars, their feet, their thumbs and their ingenuity to get to work.

Businessmen in suits were seen bicycling to the office with briefcases slung over their handlebars. In Toronto, bicycle traffic was so heavy one entire lane of a major street was given over to the cyclists. In Montreal, horse drawn carriages, usually the province of tourists, were seen picking up and delivering passengers at downtown buildings.

Massive traffic tieups were reported throughout downtown Toronto, where 600,000 persons use the public transit system daily. City officials said police would use discretion in handing out parking tickets and said the Yonge Street Mall, normally closed to traffic, would be reopened.

Montreal city officials laid on extra buses to help handle the 300,000 persons who use the subway daily. Union leaders for the bus drivers have said they will not join the walkout by 1,600 maintenance employees.

The employees decided at a union meeting Tuesday to continue their illegal walkout despite the threat of fines and prison terms for ignoring a court order to return to work.

The employees walked out one week ago to protest the suspension of 73 workers who refused to work statutory holidays and to press for reopening their contract to include cost of living clause. Their wages now average between $3.50 and $5.50 an hour.

Lawyers for the Montreal Urban Transit Commission (MUTC) have filed contempt of court charges against the union and over 100 of its members for disobeying a back to work injunction issued last Thursday.

If found guilty, the union could be fined $50,000 a day. Individual members could be fined $10,000 a day and be jailed for one year.

In Toronto, Government Mediator J.D. Speranzini said talks between the Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) and the Amalgamated Transit Union (ATU), which represents the drivers, were going slowly.

"Reaching a settlement could take a while," he said.

Metro Chairman Paul Godfrey said there was a "distinct possibility" the strike would last longer than a week.

Main issues in the dispute are wages and split shifts. The 5,700 drivers, whose contract with the city expired June 30, are seeking a 40 per cent wage increase over two years. Their wages now average from $4.32 to $5.00 an hour.

Postal officials said arrangements had been made to ensure normal mail delivery. Letter carriers who normally use the transit system to cover their route will either use their own cars or be driven by postal vans, a spokesman said.

County Program

Senior Citizens Flu Shots

KINGSTON
Flu shots will be available in Ulster County to senior citizens, persons over 60 and persons retired because of medical or physical conditions.

The announcement was made jointly by District 8 Republican legislators, Peter J. Savago, chairman of the county board; Brian R. White, chairman of the Public Health Committee and George Sisti Jr., chairman of the Program for the Aging.

The dates and locations where the vaccine will be administered by the Ulster County Health Department will be announced.

Dr. Bartholomew B. Dutto, commissioner of health explained that some influenza occurs in the U.S. every year and periodically it becomes epidemic. This appears to occur when antibody levels wane, or when a new or changed virus appears. Epidemics caused by Type A are more frequent and generally more severe than Type B, Dr. Dutto said.

Inactivated influenza viruses are the best means of protection against influenza. Public health recommendations on influenza immunizations are oriented toward those at greatest risk of serious disease and death by emphasizing the vaccination of "high risk" groups.

Repeated observations during influenza epidemics indicate that mortality is completely restricted to the chronically ill and the elderly, especially those persons over age 65.

Dr. Dutto urges annual vaccinations of the "high risk" groups as routine medical practice regardless of the amount of influenza expected in any specific geographic area.

These annual vaccinations are strongly recommended for persons of all ages who have chronic conditions such as: heart disease; chronic bronchopulmonary disease such as asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and emphysema; chronic renal disease involving the kidneys and diabetes and other chronic metabolic disorders, the doctor said.

Influenza vaccine should be administered by mid-November.

The vaccine prepared from viruses grown from embryonated eggs should not be administered to persons clearly hypersensitive to egg protein, the doctor concluded.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed rate schedule for temporary suspension of business service, to be effective September 6, 1974, has been filed with the Public Service Commission pursuant to Order issued November 26, 1973 in Case 26158.

Incoming and outgoing service will be suspended at the subscriber's request, provided that all service furnished to the subscriber on the same premises is suspended at the same time and restored at the same time.

The associated equipment will be left in place and directory listings will be continued without change. The subscriber may request that the Telephone Company inform persons calling the telephone number of the suspended service that the subscriber's calls are being received at another number, provided that facilities for furnishing this service are available.

The maximum period of suspension is 12 consecutive months.

Rates and Charges
The rates and charges specified below apply to all of the tariff rates, including mileage, for the suspended service and facilities except cable carrying charges, monthly construction charges and monthly charges for services subject to "A" and "B" monthly rates, which apply regardless of suspension. Where the suspension period includes a fraction of a month, the subscriber's monthly allowance in message units under message rate schedules is prorated.

Service Order Charge
To suspend and subsequently restore all services furnished to a subscriber on the same premises $15.00

Central Office Charge
Each Central Office line, Intrastate WATS line, PST trunk, Central Office trunk, Central Office trunk and mileage circuit suspended $15.00

Premises Visit Charge
At time of restoration of service $6.00 per visit plus $6.00 per station in excess of one $22.00

Monthly Rate
Each Central Office line, Intrastate WATS line, PST trunk, Central Office trunk, Central Office trunk and mileage circuit suspended $22.00

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGE IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed rate schedule has been filed with the Public Service Commission to become effective on September 15, 1974.

Introduction of the following:
Dial PBX Series 500 Types 40, 42, 50, 52, 60 and 62 Services.

Types 40 and 42 Service
This service is a console equipped PBX system using NA 120 type PBX equipment. The systems have a maximum capacity of 1 attendant console with a built-in station busy lamp field, 120 line equipments and 20 trunk equipments. A service is designated "Type 40" when the subscriber elects to pay an installation charge based on the estimated cost for the individual job and "Type 42" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for Type 42 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 40 service.

Types 50 and 52 Service
This service is a PBX system which may be provided using 812 type PBX equipment with or without an attendant console. The systems have a maximum capacity of 14 switched loop attendant consoles, 2000 line equipments and 600 trunk equipments. A service is designated "Type 50" when the subscriber elects to pay the installation charges for the individual job specified in the tariff and "Type 52" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for Type 52 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 50 service.

Types 60 and 62 Service
This service provides a console equipped Direct Inward Dialing PBX system using NA-09 PBX equipment. The service has a maximum capacity of 2 attendant consoles, 400 line ports, 26 Direct Inward Dialing trunks and 24 Direct Outward Dialing trunks. A service is designated "Type 60" when the subscriber elects to pay an installation charge based on the estimated cost for the individual job and "Type 62" when the subscriber elects to pay no installation charge. The monthly rates for the Type 62 service are higher than the monthly rates for Type 60 service.

Optional Features for Dial PBX Series 500 Types 20 and 22 Service and Provision for Satellite Operation
These optional features are Direct Station Selection, Camp-on and Station Dial Features. Station Dial Features include add-on conference, consultation hold, station dial transfer and trunk answer from any station.

Direct Inward Dialing Service
This service allows an incoming exchange call to be dialed directly by a calling party to a station associated with a switching system on the subscriber's premises. The switching systems are either provided by the Telephone Company (Dial PBX Series 500 Types 50, 52, 60 and 62 services) or by the subscriber. The facilities for the service are located in the central office. The service is furnished subject to the availability of facilities.

Identified Outward Dialing Service
This service identifies outgoing toll calls by recording the calling station number. The service is provided either by facilities which automatically record the calling station number or by Telephone Company operators who record the calling station number. This service is available only to subscribers to Direct Inward Dialing service, subject to the availability of facilities. When Direct Inward Dialing and Identified Outward Dialing services are associated with subscriber-provided switching systems, the subscriber's equipment is subject to the Tariff regulations covering subscriber-provided communications systems.

Regulations to permit changing from Dial Communications Service to Dial PBX Series 500 Types 22 or 42 Service
Subscribers to Dial Communications Service (DCS) have the option to change from a console equipped DCS rate to Dial PBX Series 500 Types 22 or 42 Service rates. The subscriber has 12 months from the effective date of the tariff to decide if changing to Series 500 Type 22 or 42 service rates would be beneficial to him. The subscriber may decide to make the change anytime during this 12 month period and the monthly rates for the Types 22 or 42 service would be applied as of the tariff effective date.

Rate Structure for Types 20, 22, 40, 42, 50, 52, 60 and 62 Services
The monthly rates for the major units of equipment used to provide these services, consist of 2 parts, designated "A" and "B." The "A" portion of the monthly rates for Types 20, 22, 40 and 42 services apply without change for a period of 5 years from the date of the original installation of the service and the "B" portion of the monthly rates for Types 50, 52, 60 and 62 services apply without change for a period of 7 years from the date of the original installation of the service. The "B" portion of the monthly rates for all these services applies, subject to change, for a period of 15 years from the date of the original installation of the service. After 15 years the Company will maintain service and replace equipment subject to the availability of replacement parts at rates based on cost. The Types 20, 22, 40 and 42 services are furnished for a minimum period of 5 years and the Types 50, 52, 60 and 62 services are furnished for a period of 7 years.

A. Rates and Charges for Types 40 and 42 Service
The following rates and charges apply in addition to the rates for PBX trunks, PBX stations, tie lines and tie line terminals and toll diversion.

Installation Charge
Type 40 Service

The charge for installation will be equal to the estimated cost of installation for each individual applicant for the service. The subscriber shall sign an application accepting the estimate before the installation is started. The expected cost of labor, engineering, non-recoverable material and the applicable taxes and return associated with the installation shall be included in the estimated cost.

Type 42 Service
No installation charge applies.

Community Workshop Set

POUGHKEEPSIE, Trinity Church, South Hamilton, approaches to citizen participation in community planning activities will be the theme of a gaming simulation workshop to be held by the New York State Council on Architecture, Oct. 4 and 5 at which mayors, city officials, planners, legislators, bankers, groups, will evaluate and propose community development policies and programs, and assess the political credibility of the alternatives being considered.

Mayor Arthur Weinberg of Poughkeepsie, will welcome the participants and Mrs. Sherry R. Arnstein, a national authority on citizen participation, will be the keynote speaker. Also presenting their experiences in the field will be Saratoga Associates of Saratoga Springs, an interprofessional team of architects and planners.

The New York State Council on Architecture is a state agency created in 1966 to encourage excellence in architectural design in all public buildings and in private and public construction throughout the state.

Literature Course Slated at Library

NEW PALTZ Area, as well as in the writings of men like Washington Irving, Herman Melville, John Burroughs and Nathaniel Parker Willis. Students will do research on minor authors of the area and survey library holdings in libraries of their choice with an eye to building up resources and knowledge on the subject. Inquiries on the course may be addressed to the Center for Continuing Education, State University College, New Paltz, 12561.

The course will be offered on Thursdays, from 6 to 8:30 p.m., in the Kiwanis Room of the Library. It will be taught by Dr. Alfred H. Marks, Professor of English, who has recently published the book Literature of the Mid-Hudson Valley, made up of essays by students in his American literature classes. The course will consist of readings in the history of the United States and Mid-Hudson

Lengthy Gardiner Session

GARDINER
There were only 12 persons at Tuesday night's regular session of the Gardiner Town Board but the meeting still lasted almost four hours.

"There were a number of things we wanted to discuss," explained Supervisor George Majestic.

Among the items of discussion were the state building code which the board had planned to adopt but deferred due to the small turnout, the town's park system, and the right of persons to petition the town board on zoning change requests.

Majestic said another date hasn't been set on a public hearing in the building code but suggests that it will probably be brought up at a regular town board meeting rather than at a special session.

The discussion on parks was instigated by a letter from Michael Moran, former member of the planning board, who was critical of the present operation. Majestic said Moran's comments were well taken, although according to Majestic, Moran may have not been aware of some former programs.

The right of petition to the town board discussion resulted in the town board taking the position that residents should route their petitions through channels, which is to say, to the zoning board of appeals and planning board before coming to the town board.

In its only legislative move, the town board approved a $20,000 bond anticipation note for the purchase of a shale bank off South Mountain Road.

Fatalities On Thruway Decline

ALBANY
The New York Thruway Authority has announced that fatalities on the 559-mile superhighway declined by two-thirds during the first six months of this year as compared with last year's figures.

Thruway Authority Chairman R. Burdell Bixby reported there were 16 persons killed in 16 fatal accidents during the first half of the year as compared with 41 fatal accidents and 51 deaths during the same period last year.

"We are pleased that even on one of the nation's safest superhighways there is and can be improvement," said Bixby. "We will continue to strive for further improvement."

Factors cited as contributing to the improved safety rate were the new 55-mile per hour speed limit and lower traffic volumes caused by high fuel costs and the gasoline shortage.

The six-month fatal accident rate of 0.96 per 100 million miles traveled was the lowest since 1958, according to the Thruway Authority.

Personal injury accidents during the first six months of the year dropped from 732 to 489, and property damage accidents fell from 2,239 to 1,415.

In all, there were 1,920 accidents on the Thruway in the first half of this year as compared to 3,012 during the same period last year — a 36 per cent decrease.

State Police made 23,589 speeding arrests during the first half of the year, compared to 20,009 in the same 1973 period, an increase of 15 per cent.

RV Signup Is Announced

MARBLETOWN
August 22, 23, 26, 27 and 28 have been set by the Rondout Valley School District for registration of all new students in grades five through 12.

The guidance staffs of the middle school and the high school will be available from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. for counseling and program planning. Students should bring with them their report cards, and other records which will be helpful in planning their schedules.

Rondout Valley students who failed summer school courses should telephone their counselor during the week of Aug. 19 through 23.

Further information may be obtained by calling the high or middle school.

Three Named To Council

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The appointment of three persons, including former professional opera singer Susan Yager Cook, to the State Council on the Arts, was announced Tuesday by Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Gretchen Ralph of Syracuse, co-chairman of the State Committee of Concerned Citizens for the Arts, and Oscar E. Remick of Chautauque, president of the Chautauque Institution were also named to the council.

Mrs. Cook, now of Patchogue, also is a former vice president and acting manager of the Albany Symphony Orchestra.

Ulster County Fair... 'The Biggest One Ever'

NEW PALTZ — This year's Ulster County Fair, which closed Sunday, was "probably the biggest fair we've ever had," according to Fair Manager Douglass Bartow.

Bartow estimated that "upwards of 25,000 people" attended the fair during its four days, a record number.

The Ulster County Fair was held in Ellenville until it moved to Kingston 37 years ago. It moved from Forsyth Park in Kingston to the county fairgrounds in New Paltz eight years ago.

Bartow said he was using the word "probably" to describe this year's fair crowd size because he doesn't know how big the fair was during its Ellenville days. He is sure, however, that this year topped anything in the fair's Kingston history.

"You couldn't have gotten the number of people we had here Saturday night into Forsyth Park, no matter what you did," said Bartow.

He cited two main elements in the success this year of the fair — and expanded fair program and "ideal weather."

The expansion of the program included an extra day, with the fair beginning on a Thursday rather than the traditional Friday. The 4H had requested the extra day for additional 4H activities, including dog obedience judging.

He said there was "pressure" to expand the fair even further, through an increase in the number of fair days will probably not come next year. The horse shows, particularly, ran very late this year, and those who run both the 4H and the open class shows indicated that they might want two-day shows next year.

There was a big increase in the number of animals shown at the fair. Poultry had a big jump this year, Bartow said. "Last year we had 85 pens," recalled Bartow. "This year we had 144, and we still didn't have enough."

Sheep, cattle, and horses were also up markedly.

Open class vegetable judging was a new event for this year's fair, and Bartow said the results had been found so pleasing that it would probably be expanded for next year's fair.

Though the fair is over for this year, some of the fair's contestants have further contests ahead of them. The State Fair in Syracuse is going to be the next stop for 4H winners in tractor driving, beef, horses, dairy cattle, and sheep.

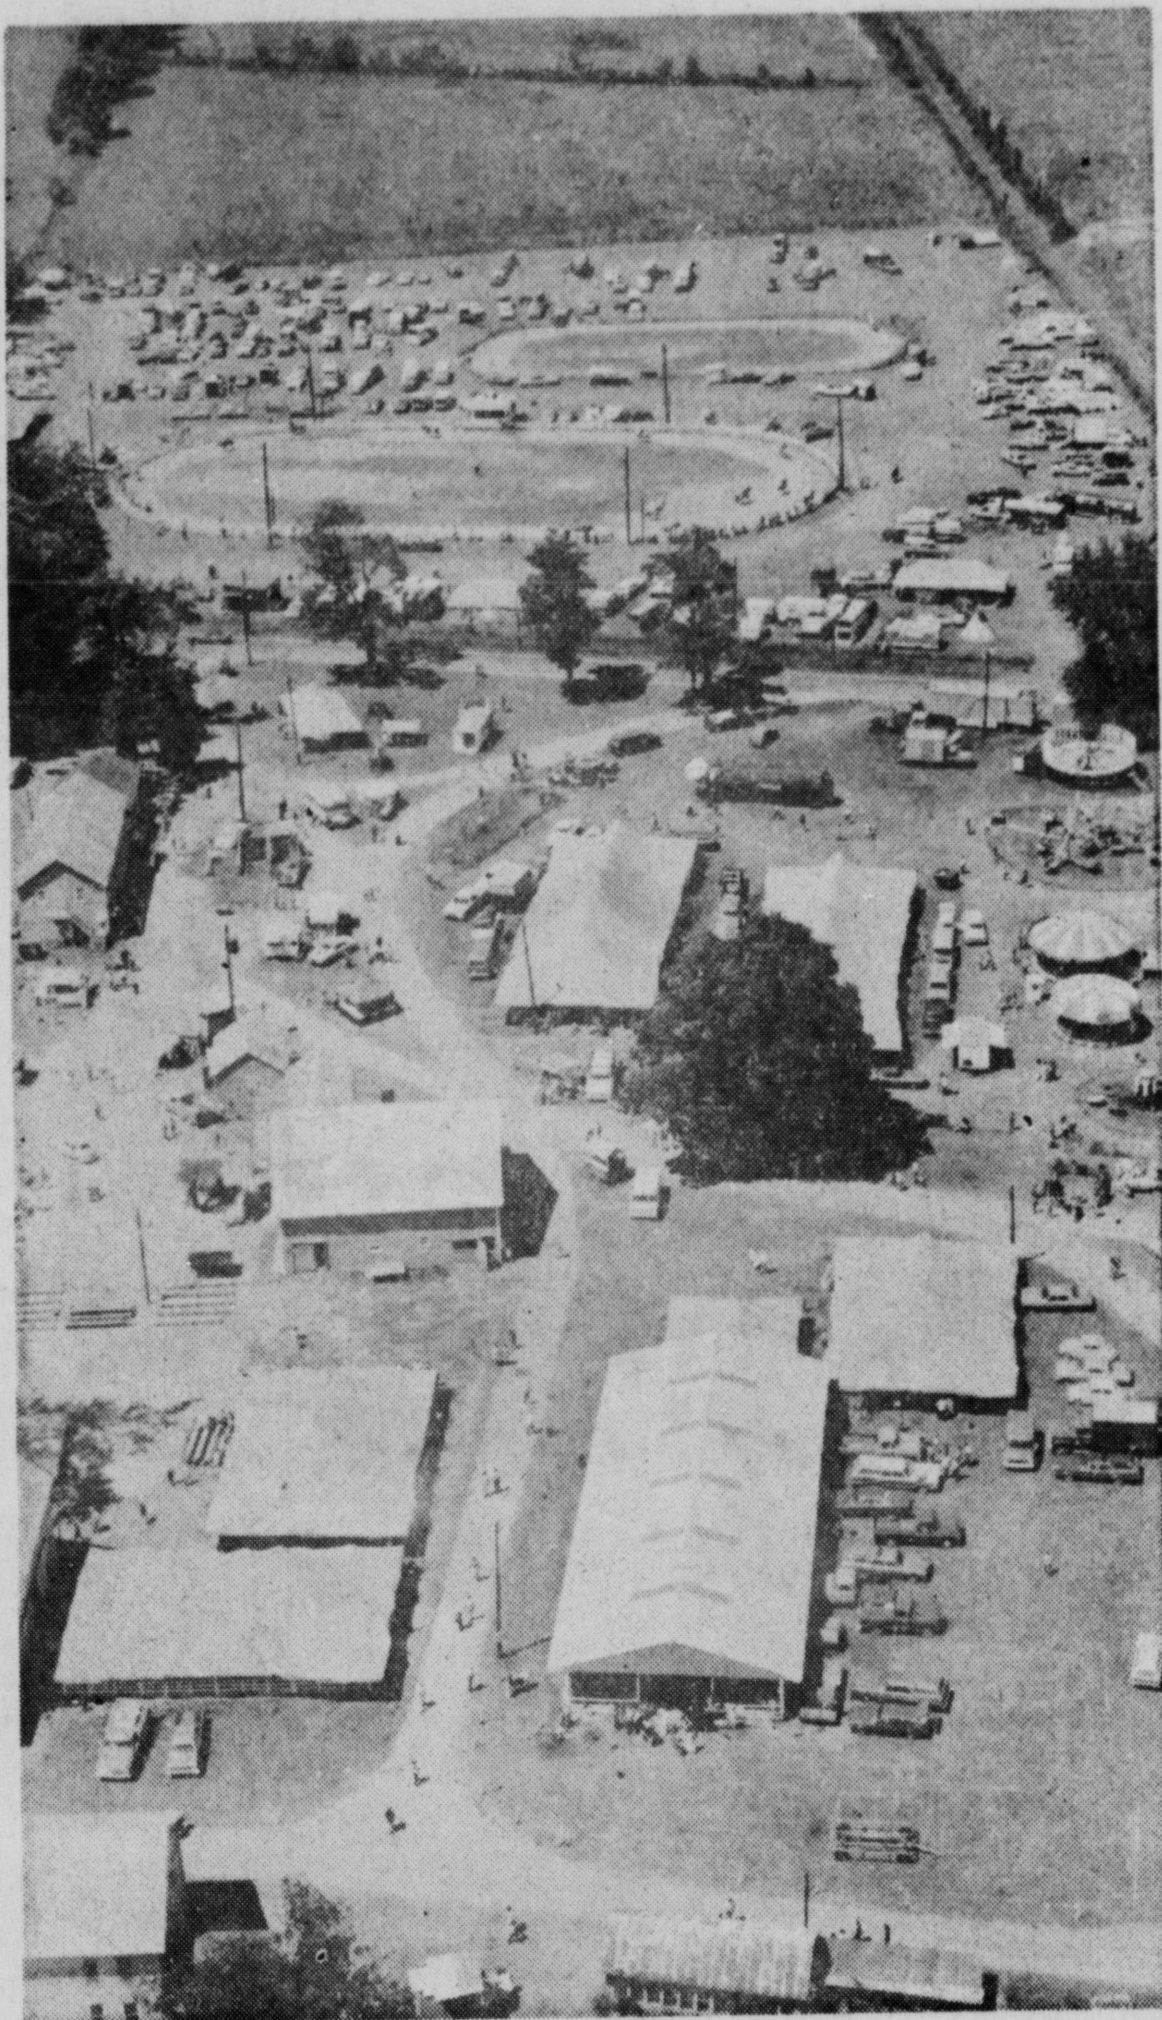

Those representing Ulster County in those events at the State Fair will be:

Tractor: Louis Van Alst, of New Paltz (first place winner); and Richard Sauer, of Mt. Marion (second place).

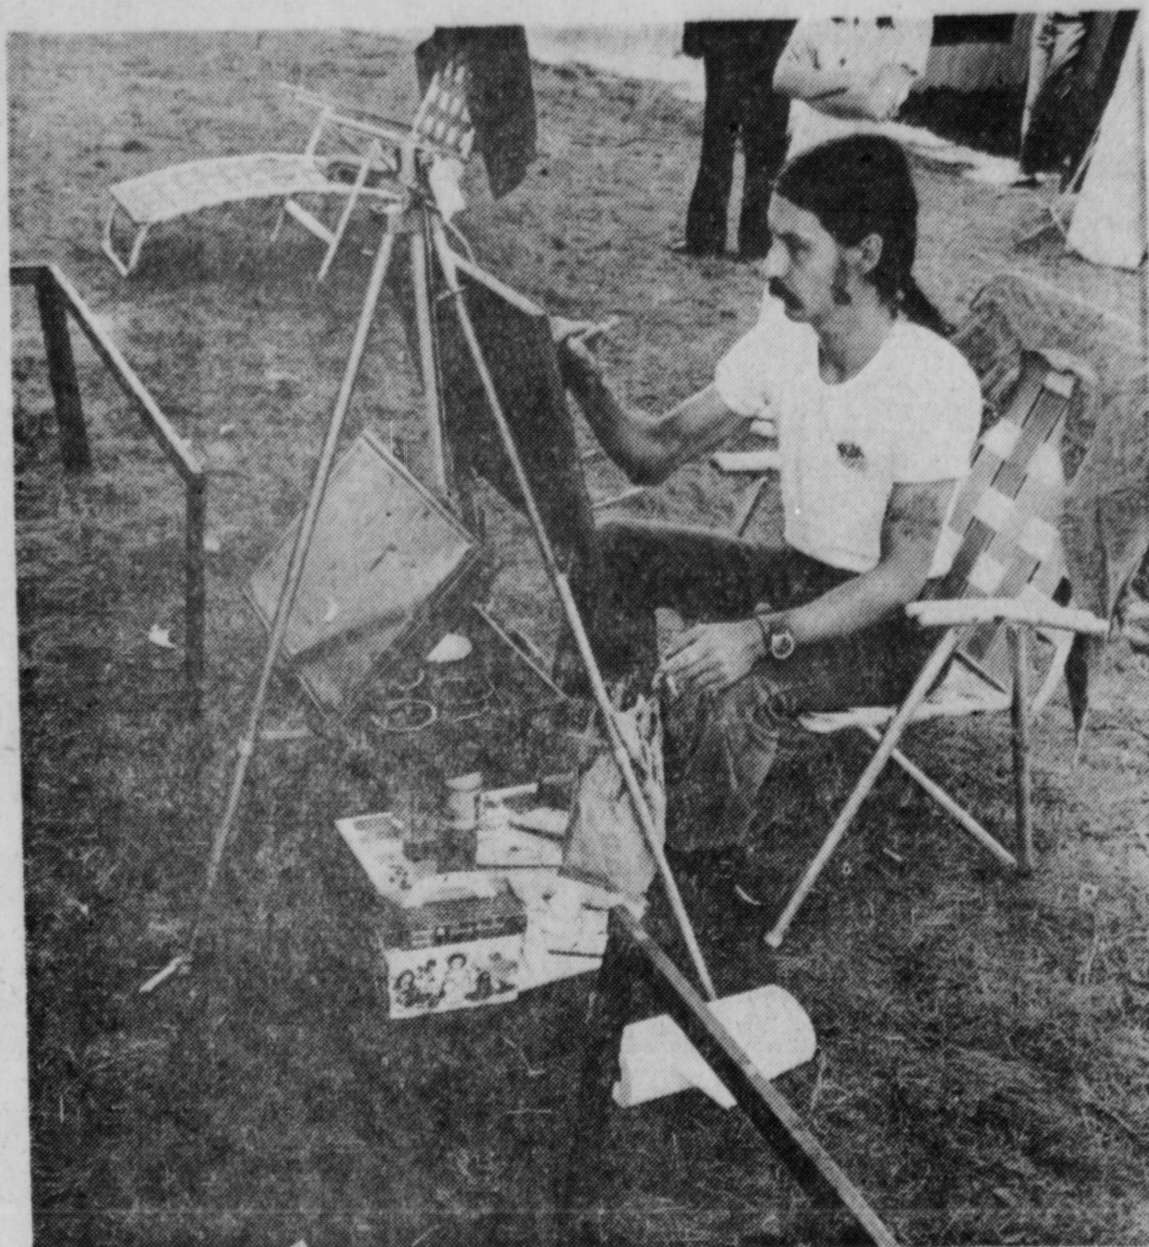

Beef: Brad Scribner, of Cindy Rifenburg, from the Runowich, of Wallkill; Margaret Saugerties; and Lee and Lance Kingston area; and Susan Davis, of Kerhonkson; and Nelsen, of Mt. Marion. Wendler, Michelle Mason, Linda George Barley and Margaret Christman, and Doreen Day, of DeWitt, of Accord.

Horses: Patti Bonomo, Kelli Davis, and Joanne Layman, of Stone Ridge.

Sheep: Nicky Lapp, and Saugerties; Tammy Bradley, Dairy: Danny Myers, and Wayne Brooks, both of High Curt Bradley, Jill Snow, and Dorothy and Catherine Falls.

La Leche League Groups to Meet

Kingston East La Leche League and Kingston West La Leche League have announced upcoming meetings.

The Kingston East group will meet Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Linda Donaldson, 47 Lamb Avenue, Barclay Heights, Saugerties. Mrs. Ruth Scogna, a qualified La Leche League leader, will discuss "The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties."

On Wednesday, Aug. 21, at 8 p.m. there will be a meeting of Kingston West La Leche League at the home of Mrs. Susan Leatherman, 261 Pearl Street, Kingston. Mrs. Pan Usticke and Mrs. Cheri Andrews, qualified La Leche League leaders, will talk on "Nutrition and Weaning."

Mother's milk has been the ideal food for infants for countless generations as breastfeeding was commonplace and the accepted method of nourishment. Outside influence has affected its steady decline and there is great pressure on mothers to bottle feed instead. New mothers no longer have a ready supply of experienced relatives or friends to call upon for breastfeeding information and support. The experienced mothers of the League are eager to help nursing women by passing along hints they have found successful in coping with their own children. It is this mother-to-mother approach that is the basis of the La Leche League philosophy of "good mothering through breastfeeding."

During infancy breastmilk is the most nutritious food for babies and the only one necessary for their well being. When solids are introduced, baby's dependence upon mother lessens and the process of weaning begins.

At the "Nutrition and Weaning" meeting, suggestions will be given as to wholesome appetizing foods to serve children. Alternatives to commercial baby foods and highly processed convenience snacks will also be offered. On sale at the meeting will be "Mother's in the Kitchen," the La Leche League cookbook which is geared to preparing nutritious meals with minimum effort.

The best time to attend meetings is during pregnancy, but all interested women are invited to attend, along with nursing mothers and their infants. Meetings are held in the homes of members to promote an informal atmosphere and foster a mutual exchange of ideas.

Information on LLL or breastfeeding may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Scogna or Mrs. Pan Usticke of Kingston, Mrs. Cheri Andrews of Tilton, or Mrs. Linda Donaldson of Saugerties.

FINAL PLANS for the West Hurley Library Fair are discussed by (L-R) Leonard Waters and Jack Bennett who are heading up a program of games planned for the day. The library fair, scheduled to be held Saturday, Aug. 24, will be set up on the grounds of the West Hurley Firehouse on Wall Street. Festivities will get underway at 10 a. m. and conclude at 4 p. m. Public is invited. The West Hurley Library is now engaged in a fund raising campaign for its new proposed building to be constructed between Mosher Place and Cedar Streets in West Hurley. ## Women Show Interest In Landscape Program

Women in increasing numbers are becoming interested in the one-year Landscape Development and Maintenance program offered by Ulster County Community College, according to David Smith, the program coordinator.

"Last year we had two women enrolled in the program as full-time students," said Mr. Smith, "and two who took courses as part-time students."

So far five women have signed up for the diploma program for September, according to Mr. Smith, and there is a chance there might be a few more by the time classes begin.

He said the program's employment opportunities are excellent. "Much interest has been shown by employers in Ulster and surrounding counties."

Mr. Smith foresees the job opportunities remaining good

Outdoor Antiques Show, Sale

Several antiques dealers from four States are preparing for the outdoor Antiques Show and Sale to be held in conjunction with the ninth Annual Fishkill Day Celebration, sponsored by the Fishkill Jaycees, at Geering Park in Fishkill on Saturday.

The outdoor show, which is under the management of Antique Decor Promotions of Mohagan Lake, N.Y., will be open to the public from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. Not to be confused with the usual flea market, where the type of merchandise is unlimited, this event is strictly for antique buffs. The merchandise will be presented by knowledgeable antiques dealers, showing and selling the finest of their wares.

Offered for sale will be a wide price range of merchandise of interest to both the novice and the seasoned collector. Oak furniture, paintings, prints and maps, early wooden and tinware, antique jewelry, Cambridge and Phoenix glass, quilts and homespun coverlets, primitives, American pottery, fine porcelains, antique jewelry, and Hudson River Currier & Ives prints are some of the specialties listed by participating exhibitors.

Geering Park has its entrance on Route 52 (Main Street) in Fishkill, at the intersection of Interstate 84 (Exit 12). It is also easily accessible via Taconic State Parkway and US Route 9, which intersects with Route 52 in Fishkill. Children under 16 are free of charge.

Sutherland-Proper Wedding Announced

Brenda Lee Sutherland of New Paltz and Steven Eric Proper of Saugerties were united in marriage Saturday, Aug. 3, at New Paltz United Methodist Church. The Rev. Craig A. Haight officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Kenneth Baumgartner, organist, provided wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sutherland, 223 Main Street, New Paltz. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Proper of 1285 Blue Mountain Road, Saugerties.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white organza over silk taffeta fashioned with a fitted Empire bodice, a ring neckline and bishop sleeves accented with Chantilly lace. She wore a French illusion cathedral veil accented with Chantilly lace and carried a nosegay of white carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Rosalie J. DuBois of New Paltz was maid of honor in a gown of pale blue chiffon styled with a square neckline, bishop sleeves and Venice lace accents. A matching satin bow served as her headpiece and she carried a nosegay of pastel carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants were Judith Sutherland, sister of the bride, New Paltz; Joanne DuBois, and Deborah DuBois, cousins of the bride, Albany. Rebecca DuBois, cousin of the bride, Albany, served as flower girl. Their gowns were similar in styling to the honor attendant's except in mint green, apricot, lilac and pink. They carried arrangements of carnations accented with baby's breath.

Gary Boyce of Blue Mountain Road, Saugerties, was best man. Ushers were Gregory Proper, Norfolk, Va., Alan Proper, Saugerties, brothers of the bridegroom; Robert Proper, cousin of the bridegroom; Shokan, Lance Kimlin, cousin of the bride, New Paltz, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given at the Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

The bride was graduated from New Paltz Central High School and is employed at Inter-County Savings Bank, New Paltz. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, is employed by F. L. Russell Corp., Mt. Marion.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Proper will reside at 927 Orlando Street, Kingston.

Bake-Off Entry Blanks Available

The 26th Bake-Off, the World Series and Super Bowl of baking, will be held February 23-25, 1975 in San Francisco, Cal., at the new Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the Freeman Women's Department. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A new category for pancake mix has been added. Other categories are hot roll mix, frosting, flour and refrigerated crescent rolls. The prize structure remains at two $25,000 grand prizes and four $5,000 awards. Entries will be judged on excellent taste and appearance, popular appeal of ingredients, convenient preparation method and time, and good value-cost.

One hundred finalists will earn an expense paid trip to bake their recipes in the ballroom of the hotel on Monday, February 24. They also will win a General Electric countertop microwave oven.

Isaak Walton Has Nothing on Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Folks:
A good fisherman I definitely am not. It kills me to sit all day and everyone else brings 'em in, and the little devils just steal my bait.
Some fishermen tell the darndest stories. And they all compare bait. Well, I got a new one for them.
I found a dead grasshopper, put him on the hook and caught me a dilly. Now these little critters you don't find when you need 'em. And never at a lake, so I started looking around at home in the yard. They're plentiful, too. The secret is to catch them. I keep a bug spray-can on the porch now. When I see one of the little darlings, I spray away.
Then know what I do? I bottle him in a pill bottle and put him in my fishin' box. Try it. But don't tell your fishin' friend. Nobody knows this but you and me. And let's keep this a secret between just us.

Fishergal Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Last year we bought an older home. The kitchen drainboards are composition, but the former owner had evidently used abrasive cleaners on them, and the protective finish was gone. As a result, everything that was set on them left a stain (tea, grapejuice, etc.) that could only be removed with bleach.

My little sister (a freshman in college), suggested a remedy. I cleaned the drainboards with bleach, removing all the stains, and then applied two coats of an acrylic floor wax.

Now, the counters are shiny and wipe clean with a damp sponge. You can add another coat of wax when necessary.

Christie Curtis

Dear Heloise:

I usually keep frozen pizza in the house for unexpected company.

I start with a very hot oven, (the secret of tasty pizza) and before placing it in the oven, sprinkle generously with cooking oil.

I think mine taste as scrumptious as the ones I get from my favorite pizza parlor.

Mary Liebenthal

Dear Heloise:

A one-inch thick piece of foam rubber cut the size of a plastic pillow cover makes a nice pad to use when bathing baby.

Slip the foam rubber inside the plastic cover and zip closed. Cover the pad with a towel or blanket for baby's comfort when in use.

We take this pad with us when we go visiting as it makes a nice waterproof place to change the baby.

HAVE YOU NOTICED:

That hose or panty hose will more often twist when you are in a hurry... and even though you start a flow of plain old country sweat you can't budge them.

Ghost Jon

Dear Heloise:

Clothes to be ironed need a lot less ironing if they are put on hangers when they come off the line or out of the dryer.

If you have no place to hang them, hang them in a closet until ironing day.

Mrs. O. A. Donaldson

Dear Heloise:

When sewing at my portable sewing machine, I seemed to forever be scrambling for straight pins and needles.

Because conventional pin cushions never worked well for me, I took a soft sponge and glued it to the top of my machine. Now needles and pins are so handy.

Sandi Kauffman

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

This may not be so funny to you, but it was to us when it happened.

I had given my husband a new electric blanket with dual controls. But sometimes he would complain about being so warm and I would be cool.

One night I turned my side on first, and later when I turned his side on I put my hand on the blanket and noticed how warm it was. Then I realized I had the controls on the wrong side of the bed. He was controlling my side and I was controlling his!

Mrs. L. J. Jackson

Isn't it strange how men always like to sleep cooler than women? Guess you have everything under control.

May Proves He's Still Effective

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rudy May must be sorry the California Angels waited so long to write him off.

Since being sold to the New York Yankees on June 15, the 30-year-old southpaw is 5-1 with an earned run average of 1.48. After stopping the A's 4-1 on four hits Wednesday night, he has thrown 28 consecutive innings without permitting an earned run. As a Yankee, May has hurled a two-hitter, three four-hitters, a six-hitter and a seven-hit, 2-1 victory over the Angels.

"I had reached the point in my career where I had to start proving I could pitch well if I wanted to stay in baseball," May said after taming Oakland on Elliott Maddox's two-run, ninth-inning off-liner Vida Blue (14-10).

"There's a big difference pitching for the Yankees," May added. "This club wants to win. On the Angels, everybody was concerned only about looking good. There is a difference."

"And it's really helped having Thurman Munson as my catcher. Not once in the seven games I've pitched for the Yankees have I had to shake off any of Thurman's signals."

May, a one-time Oakland high school star in four sports, was 51-76 in five-plus seasons with the Angels. He had a poor spring training record this year and was relegated to the bullpen.

"We felt he'd be better off with another team," said former Angel Manager Bobby Winkles, fired two weeks after May was sold. Winkles is now a coach for the A's.

"He was at an age where he had to help himself or he couldn't help the ball club. And he wasn't an effective relief pitcher," said Winkles.

Can Royals Catch A's?
One guy who's spent the season on the bench and another who's spent it on the beach could make the difference for the Kansas City Royals this year.

The Oakland A's seemingly have their fourth straight

Western Division title in hand with a 5½ game lead but Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon thinks the Royals are capable of catching the A's with guys like Orlando Cepeda and Tony Solaita around.

Cepeda, who spent the early part of the season relaxing on a long Puerto Rico vacation after being cut by Boston in spring training, continued his surge in a Kansas City uniform with his first homer of the year as the Royals routed the Detroit Tigers 9-1.

Solaita, who's been on the bench most of the year but is now filling in for the injured John Mayberry for the second time this season, belted a three-run homer in the easy win as Steve Busby coasted to his 18th triumph.

Cepeda is now hitting .302 in 10 games for the Royals and has batted in 14 runs. But he was concerned that he hadn't hit a homer in his first nine games.

"The home run was important to me," he said. "I was wondering where all my power went."

McKeon said, "Cepeda means a whole lot to this ballclub. He gives us added depth, another big bat and a psychological lift. You look at most of the pennant winners in the past years and they all picked up an experienced bat for the stretch."

Cepeda is ours. He's had a history of delivering in the clutch. He's the type of player who rises to the occasion."

After finishing his vacation, Cepeda saw some action in the Mexican League before joining the Royals and it seems as if he never was away. The Red Sox, fighting to win the Eastern Division crown, must be second guessing themselves for releasing him.

McKeon was also pleased with Solaita's fill-in performance since Mayberry is now out with a broken hand. Solaita has played in only 70 games but is hitting .279.

"It's the second time we've called on him this season and he's done the job for us. Mayberry was out earlier in the year and we won seven of 10 with Solaita in the lineup. He's the type of guy you have to have on your bench. He's done the job in a very major league fashion."

McKeon describes Busby quite simply. "In my opinion, he's the best pitcher in baseball," McKeon said.

The Royals knocked out Fred Holdsworth during a six-run first inning that included Solaita's three-run blast and Busby was able to coast to the victory.

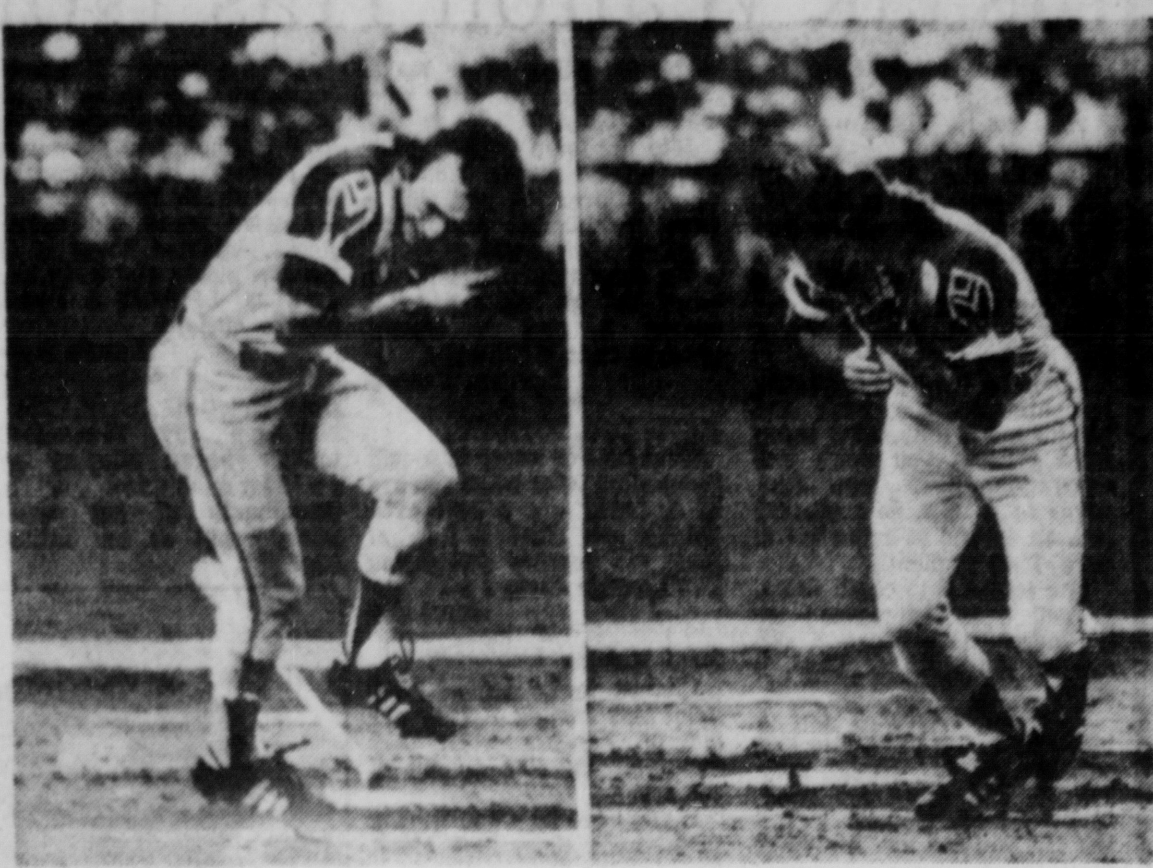

In the other games, Minnesota edged Cleveland 1-0, Milwaukee nipped Texas 6-5, Chicago nipped Baltimore 5-4 and California blanked Boston 5-0.

Twins 1, Indians 0
Joe Decker and Bill Campbell combined on a four-hitter to give Minnesota the victory over Cleveland. Glenn Borgmann's sacrifice fly in the seventh accounted for the only run off loser Fritz Peterson.

White Sox 5, Orioles 4
Ken Henderson drove in three runs with a homer and a single but the White Sox also needed a run-scoring single from Brian Downing in the eighth inning to edge Baltimore. Dick Allen had two hits to stretch his hitting streak to 15 games for the Sox.

Angels 5, Red Sox 0
Winston Llenas and Bobby Valentine each singled in a run during a three-run third inning to help California down Boston. Rookie Frank Tanana got his first shutout with a seven-hitter.

Brewers 6, Rangers 5
Tim Johnson's pinch single in the eighth inning led Milwaukee over Texas. Doubles by George Scott and Darrell Porter tied the score before Johnson's hit won it. Cesar Tovar went 5-for-5 for the Brewers in the losing cause.

HE'S OUT — As an Atlanta teammate comes to his aid, Robinson lies unconscious after being hit on the jaw by Blair's pitch. Robinson suffered bruises and returned to the stadium after being taken to a hospital for X-rays. Atlanta won the game, 6-1. (UPI)

Marshall Made One Crucial Mistake

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Marshall made one big mistake Wednesday afternoon. He gave Rusty Staub a second chance.

The Los Angeles Dodgers were clinging to a 2-1 lead over the New York Mets and with their ace reliever Marshall on the mound, prospects for a victory seemed fairly well in hand.

Those prospects were especially brightened in the eighth inning when Marshall survived a first and third situation with nobody out because the slow-footed Staub was thrown out at the plate on what ordinarily would have been a routine double play with the tying run scoring.

With Staub on third and Cleon Jones on first with back-to-back singles, John Milner grounded to first and the astonished Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey, seeing Staub had not yet crossed the plate, fired to home for the putout instead of going for the routine double play. Marshall, obviously relieved, got the next two Mets to end the threat and keep the one-run lead intact.

But in the ninth, the Mets rallied again, tying the score on a walk, a sacrifice, Tom Paciorek's error on pinchhitter Ron Hodges' long drive to centerfield and another single by Felix Millan.

That left Staub at the plate and this time, using his bat instead of his legs, the big redhead belted a Marshall fastball over Paciorek's head in center, bringing home Hodges to provide the Mets with a 3-2 victory.

"I knew he had put himself in a position where he had to come in to me," Staub said afterward. "I never thought he would walk me because that would load the bases and really put him in a jam and besides, he's had a lot of success in the past in getting me out."

Considering the fact that there was no assurance that Staub would ever come to the plate again, there was naturally some second-guessing of Met manager Yogi Berra's decision not to insert a pinch runner for his rightfielder in the eighth.

"No. I never considered removing him," Berra said. "Especially since it was a no-out situation."

The Dodgers had taken a 2-1 lead in the fourth starting pitcher Doug Rau helped his own cause by singling off Mets' starter Tom Seaver to bring home Von Joshua who had singled, stolen second and moved to third on a sacrifice. Seaver lasted seven innings, giving up eight hits and the two Dodger runs and Tug McGraw who hurled two innings of so-so relief picked up his third win against six losses.

Reds Gain Ground

The Cincinnati Reds are giving their own manager the shakes so you can imagine what they're doing to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Look, I can hardly hold it," said Manager Sparky Anderson Wednesday night as he juggled a roast beef sandwich after the Reds pulled out a "cliff-hanger" 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. "The Dodgers aren't out of the woods yet because they have six games left with the Pirates."

The Reds' victory moved them to within 4½ games of the first-place Dodgers in the National League East. The Reds were four games behind the Dodgers as late as Aug. 30 last season and still won the division crown.

"When you win one out of three and still pick up a game in the standings, it makes you feel good," added Anderson, referring to the fact that the Reds won only one game of their series with the Pirates but gained ground because the Dodgers lost their three-game series with the New York Mets.

Cesar Geronimo drove in the winning run when he doubled home Dave Concepcion with the 10th inning but Anderson's "hero" was 22-year-old left-handed relief pitcher Will McEnaney, who entered the game with Pirates on first and third and none out in the ninth and retired the side without allowing a run.

"Clay Carroll received credit for the victory," said Anderson. "But McEnaney won the game." Concepcion led off the 10th with a single off reliever Bruce Kison and went to second when left-fielder Willie Stargell bobbled the ball. George Foster grounded out but Geronimo then delivered his game-winning double off Ramon Hernandez.

Don Gullett carried a 2-0 lead into the seventh but the Pirates tied the score on singles by Richie Zisk and Frank Tavaras, a double by Manny Sanguillen and two walks.

McEnaney took over in the ninth with runners on first and third and retired Richie Hebner on a line drive and got Al Oliver to hit into a double play. The loss was Kison's seventh against six wins.

St. Louis defeated San Diego 5-1. Atlanta beat Montreal 6-1. San Francisco topped Philadelphia 6-4 and Chicago shaded Houston 6-5 in other NL games.

Cardinals 5 Padres 1

Reggie Smith's three-run homer climaxed a five-run fifth inning rally which enabled the Cardinals' Alan Foster to win his seventh game with a six-hitter. The Cards were held to two hits by Randy Jones until Luis Melendez led off the fifth with a double. Ken Reitz singled, Mike Tyson doubled and Ted Sizemore singled before Smith delivered the decisive blow. Nate Colbert homered for the Padres.

Braves 6 Expos 1

Hank Aaron hit his 16th homer and the 729th of his career and Dusty Baker also homered to lead the Braves' 10-hit attack. Baker's homer was a three-run shot in a four-run first which sent Carl Morton off to a fast start toward his 12th win against seven losses. Dennis Blair suffered his fifth setback.

Giants 6 Phillies 1

Bobby Bonds' two-run ninth inning homer lifted the Giants over the Phils and gave Elias Sosa his eighth win and Mac Scarce his seventh defeat. Gary Matthews and Ollie Brown also homered.

Cubs 6 Astros 5
Don Kessingers' triple and singles by Jose Cardenal, Billy Williams and Andy Thornton gave the Cubs a 4-1 lead in the first inning and they held on for the win with the late-inning relief pitching of Oscar Zamora and Jim Todd. The victory snapped Chicago's eight-game losing streak.

They're Training, Not Talking

By United Press International
All the belligerent talk by both striking players and coaches seems to have died down and it's business as usual in the National Football League camps.

For the most part, the most outspoken coaches, like Houston's Sid Gillman and Cincinnati's Paul Brown, and the leading player spokesmen, like the Bengals' Pat Matson, toned down their threats and counter-threats and got down to the business of getting ready for the upcoming season.

Wednesday was the reporting date set by the NFL Players Association to begin a 14-day cooling off period in hopes of bringing about a contract settlement. And there were few problems as most camps reported a good number of veterans reporting or planning to report soon. Talks are scheduled to resume today in Washington.

Twenty-seven striking Atlanta veterans reported and Coach Norm Van Brocklin said there would be no animosity toward the striking players and the regulars would start Saturday night's pre-season game with Cincinnati in Atlanta.

"All of what has been said and done was forgotten when they walked through that door today," said Van Brocklin.

At Houston, one incident did occur as outspoken striker Fred Willis carried the ball and was met by linebacker Al Cowlings, a strike breaker who reported earlier this week. Cowlings shouted at Willis, the two came face-to-face but no punches were thrown.

The honking of car horns signaled the arrival of a caravan of Minnesota Viking veterans at their training camp at Mankato State College. Thirty veterans showed up at the same time, traveling in a long string of vehicles from Bloomington, Minn., where they had been working out daily as a unit at a high school field.

The only experienced player not in camp was all-pro tackle Alan Page, a member of the negotiating committee, who will be in Washington today.

"Now's the time to get ready for another season," said quarterback Fran Tarkenton. "It's great to get back."

Coach Bud Grant wanted no part of the strike dispute.

"I haven't asked anybody if they're going to leave in two weeks," he said. "I have no control over it. I'm a coach, not an owner. My job is to get the players in shape for a game."

Matson, the Bengals' player rep, said, "We've decided to forget about the whole thing and just play football. There comes a point when you've got to shrug things off. It's arrived."

Gillman, who angered Houston players by cutting seven veterans early this week, claims he's not running for most popular man in camp.

"This is not an easy game we're in," he said. "It is not calculated to win popularity contests. You try to win (Vince Lombardi didn't lead any popularity contest. They say they hate (Tom) Landry but all Landry does is win. They say they hate (Don) Shula, but all Shula does is win. I don't know what is the answer?"

"We tried to find those seven guys but we didn't know where they were. We didn't know where anybody was . . . we didn't know who was going to come in. Everything was unusual. Would it have been better if we had let them in camp for a day then cut them?"

Don Shula, coach of the World Champion Miami Dolphins, showed no signs of retribution toward the 12 returning veterans, but no mercy either. He put them through two sessions under the broiling Florida sun.

"I'm assuming the players are here to play football," he said.

Larry Csonka, the Super Bowl MVP who will play his last season for Miami this year, showed up with a cold and made what he hopes is his final statement on jumping leagues. "I would like just one year for crying out loud, to play football without all the side issues like strike and contract hassles and whatever else has been going on," he said. "I'm going to play the best football I possibly can and so will Jim (Klick) and Paul (Warfield). I'm going to play my guts out, not because I owe the Dolphins anything, but because I have the pride to want to win for myself and all the other guys with the same pride to win."

The Baltimore Colts met with club officials and decided to report as a group Sunday. A few deals marked the players' return. The New York Giants sent defensive end Carter Campbell to Cleveland for tight end Chip Glass. Both are playing out their options and heading for the NFL next season. Cincinnati traded punter Dave Lewis to New England. San Francisco sent receivers Dick Witche and John Isenbarger, who will join the WFL next season, to Chicago for return specialist Cecil Turner.

There were indications that he hoped he would begin his 10th season with the Jets this Saturday afternoon when they meet their intra-city rivals, the Giants.

But new Jet Coach Charlie Winner doesn't think Joe will play.

"It wouldn't be fair to expect him to be ready to play this Saturday and I won't take the guys who aren't ready." And Namath, who is playing out the option year of his contract, hinted that he won't be with the Jets next year—or anybody else.

"If this is my last year, I want to be free and clear to fulfill all of my commitments," he said. "I like that idea, that if I finish I'll be free of my obligations. As I've said all along, New York and the New York Jets is where I want to be."

Namath, who said he had been working out twice a day at the University of Alabama, had conflicting thoughts during the National Football League Players Association strike.

He said he thought about joining the Jet picket lines, but was dissuaded by his lawyer, Jimmy Walsh. Then he thought about splitting with the union and showing up at camp.

"But I'm glad I didn't," Namath said.

Now that the NFLPA has told its troops to report to camp, Namath expects to stay here "unless something drastic happens. I'll do what the Association has ordered."

The 31-year-old superstar admitted that last season might have been his last season.

"I gave it a lot of thought at the season's end, when I went hamstringing trouble was 'going to Puerto Rico,'" Namath said.

Namath Arrives

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath sashayed into camp about the time he usually does. Late.

But since more than 1,000 other players were also late reporting to their jobs, it wasn't such a big deal this time.

Namath, accompanied by his chauffeur and his attorney, reported to camp at 1:15, EDT, Wednesday. No one asked about the health of the lawyer or the chauffeur.

Namath, the Jets' injury-prone quarterback, said the separated shoulder that kept him out of most of New York's 1973 games was fine, the bad knees that have bothered him throughout his career were fine, but a severe hamstring pull was not.

Namath injured himself in a bizarre water skiing accident during a February vacation in the Bahamas.

Namath, who is paid an estimated $250,000 a season to endanger his crippled body during the football season, said the hamstring trouble was "going to Puerto Rico."

I am now able to drop back and do my maneuvers while ball-handling, but I don't get back as fast as I have, and it bothers me when I sprint straight ahead."

Brewers Capture B Division Title

SAUGERTIES homer put the Brewers ahead, four RBIs on his homer and Ho-Jo's went ahead 5-3 but Trailing 5-3 at the end of three innings, Boo's Brewers rallied with five runs in the third and went onto edge Howard Johnson's 9-7 for the Saugerties Softball League B Division championship. The teams went into the game with identical 10-2 records. Larry Panella's three-run led the pitching won and lost record with 10-2 and was runner-up in batting with .590 to Whitaker's .600. In other games, West Saugerties Wizards outlasted Ted's Exxon 11-8 and Fire Department trounced Exxon 7-1. Behind the seven-hit pitching of Jack Hillje, who picked up his second win after nine losses. Bill Brown knocked in five runs for the Wizards with a single and homer. Chris Mauterstock paced the Firemen with two singles and double. Jamie Todaro had a triple and single for the losers.

Rosner's Nearing Championship

SAUGERTIES Eveready blew a 12-1 lead against Pepperidge as Rusty Rosner's Oasis needs wins in Brinnier stroked four singles each of its last two games to clinch the Saugerties Softball League's C Division pennant, but a loss in either would create a tie with Eveready Beverages. Rosner's topped its record to 8-3 with a 12-1 win over Mark IV Printing behind the four-hit pitching of Albert Scott. Herb Whitaker slammed two homers to provide the big offensive blows. Elsewhere, Eveready beat Mark IV, 9-4, but lost to Pepperidge Farm, 17-14. In another game, Speri's Pakkers tripped the Gunjah Warriors, 12-10.

Cox Disabled
 PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Larry Cox was placed on the 15-day disabled list Wednesday by the Philadelphia Phillies, who recalled catcher Jim Shaw from Toledo of the International League. Cox, hitting .114, injured his left knee Tuesday night in a collision at home plate with outfielder Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants after starting the last two games for the Phillies because of a slump by regular catcher Bob Boone. Essian had five home runs and 23 runs batted in at Toledo. He was expected to report immediately.

Kingston American and Town of Ulster in LL Finals

KINGSTON Montgomery Ward of the Kingston American League, and the Town of Ulster Yankees will meet in the finals of the Kingston Area Round Robin Little League Tournament Friday at the Esopus Little League Field.

The finalists advanced Wednesday convincing wins over second round opponents. The Americans dumped the National League's Dodgers, 5-1 behind a three-hitter by Chuck Massa, while Ulster bombed the Onteora League's Yankees, 12-4. Massa, who got a lift from the fine fielding of second baseman Gary Reynolds and centerfielder Richard Miller, kept the Dodgers at bay with sharp control and enough steam to get eight strikeouts against a lone walk. He was touched for a run in the third when Loren Wangstad was awarded first base on catcher's interference and scored on Phil DeCicco's long smash to left, but he escaped further damage.

when Reynolds went deep in the hole to his right and threw out the runner to end the inning.

The American League champs scored first when an error and two walks loaded the bases in the second inning. Steve McCordle almost got out of it with three straight strikeouts, but a passed ball allowed Gene Massa to race home from third.

Don Bigando and Gene Massa combined singles in the home third to put the Americans on top, 2-1. Massa got the RBI. Then in the fourth they put it away.

A walk and an error on the Dodger infield put two Wards runners aboard. McCordle bore down to get the second out on strikes, but then Miller, who had hurt the Dodgers in the top half of the inning with a fine running catch in the outfield, blooped a hit to center scoring two more runs.

The Americans loaded the bases again in the fifth inning and got one more run on a single by Tony Fuoco.

The Ulster Yanks trounced their Onteora counterparts behind the combined four-hit pitching of Kevin McNiff and Steve Glaser, but for awhile it was a close contest.

Losing pitcher Steve Lane

retired the first three Ulster batters he faced, but when the second inning began, Mike Sainsbury cracked the first of his three hits and eventually came around to score.

That's the way it stayed until the fourth inning when Ulster broke through for a five-run rally. The winners then added two more runs in the fifth and capped it with four more runs in the top of the sixth to put the contest well out of reach.

Sainsbury scored three times as well as hitting three-for-three, and he had a triple among his hits. McNiff chipped in with a double, a single and two RBIs. John Norman also batted in two for Ulster, and John Eppard contributed on a late Onteora rally. Lane was charged with seven walks against his eight strikeouts and gave up seven hits. He led the Onteora offense with a double in three trips, scored one run and drove in another.

Favorites Win In UC Doubles

KINGSTON Favorites advanced in both doubles divisions of the Ulster County Tennis Championships Wednesday. Most of the spectator interest was focused on women's doubles where Ruth Goldin and Judy Sykes put on a quality show to defeat Chis Miller and Judy Hevesi, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0.

Barbara Badalato and Mary Fowler turned back Rose Koplovitz and Barbara Tochterman 6-3, 6-1. The winners meet for the championship Saturday at 10 a.m.

In men's doubles, Ron Woods and Pete Boyd won over Carl Hubert and Ranier Damm 6-1, 6-2. Gordie Krajna and M. Barker topped Brighton and Stephen Jacobs 7-6, 6-1 and Dick Smith and Tom Provenzano eliminated Marshall Lipton and Fred Schwitz, 6-1, 7-5.

The Zeeh-Zeeh and Woods-Boyd are scheduled this evening (Thursday) at 7 p.m. Krajna and Barker play Smith and Provenzano in the other semi-final Friday at 5:30 p.m.

A top semi-final singles match is scheduled today at 5:30 p.m. when Dick Smith goes against Lloyd Emanuel. Bill Zeeh and Gordie Krajna play at the same time.

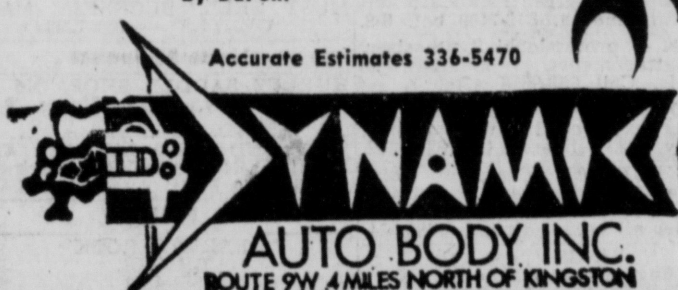

The senior men's competition is reported lagging at this stage of the tournament.

The tournament awards presentation ceremony will be held immediately following Sunday's 6:2 p.m. men's singles finals. Refreshments will be furnished by the Kingston Area Tennis Association.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FANTASIES: (Q) When I see a good-looking chick I imagine all these fantasies with her. Am I abnormal, or do other dudes have this problem?

Please help me because I can't go on much longer. — Suffering in Wisconsin

(A.) Most teenage boys have fantasies about girls, both consciously and in their sleep. Those who keep themselves in control are OK. You seem to be in control. Do not worry. The boys who don't stop at thoughts or dreams but must "act out" their fantasies in rape or "peeping" or some other unacceptable form of behavior are the abnormal ones.

NOT A 36: (Q) I'm 14 and not as developed as most of the girls I know. My bust is only a 33. My bra size is 34-A. Most of my friends take about 36-C's.

The boys make fun of me and call me a "pirate's dream, a sunken chest." I wear clothes that I think compliment me, and I try to ignore their remarks. But isn't there some way I can make them stop it?—Little in Louisiana

(A.) It is the nature of boys that if they are not interested in a girl they don't notice her one way or another. The boys show by the attention they pay you that they are interested in you.

Be calm about their "smart" remarks and eventually they will drop them. Be calm, too, about your small breasts. They may grow bigger later, but even if they don't, 33 is enough for a good life.

Squeeze Causes Heart Problems

By Oswald and James Jacoby

not hold more than two hearts and a squeeze against West was going to work.

South led dummy's last trump discarded another heart and watched West squirm. West could only hold three cards. One had to be the jack of clubs. He was forced to unguard his queen of hearts and the slam was made.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

People who never make a mistake also never do much of anything.

When we're told to have a good time but to behave ourselves — we wish the advice-giver would make up his mind.

Add to your dictionary of collective nouns: A grouch of bus riders.

Smile: As unpopular as the jam-tasting judge at a country fair.

Easier thing to dirty is a white lie.

Be kind to your favorite weightwatcher: Offer him cold sauerkraut — and — pickled mushroom sandwiches. On diet bread.

A political debate is like a tornado: Lots of wind going round and round.

Easy magic trick: Making a buck disappear.

Add to your dictionary of collective nouns: A nodding of yes-men.

The boss is a conscientious objector — about everything we do.

Congress Establishing Cost of Living Task Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress and the administration moved quickly today toward establishing a new Cost of Living task force but the nation's biggest labor federation said it viewed the proposal "with a cold and jaundiced eye."

The latest anti-inflation panel, a take-off on the old Cost of Living Council, would keep an official eye on wage and price increases and expose them publicly if they are deemed excessive.

Congress handled the proposal with unusual haste, perhaps in deference to its former colleague, President Ford. In his maiden policy speech Monday, Ford asked Congress to revive the council which expired last April 30, in a modified form. By Wednesday, both the House and Senate had begun hearings.

The reaction of most lawmakers ranged from enthusiastic to lukewarm and labor was frankly skeptical. In testimony Thursday to the Senate Banking Committee, Andrew J. Biemiller, chief lobbyist for the AFL-CIO, said the union federation "looks upon any proposal for another cost of living council with a cold and jaundiced eye."

Under the Nixon administration's 2½ year economic stabilization program, wages went up slower than prices so that the buying power of union members actually shrunk.

But workers "have confidence in the integrity of this President (Ford)," Biemiller said. "So we are prepared to go along with this cost of living task force."

However, Biemiller added this provision: the task force should monitor "everything at every level" including interest rates and corporate profits, especially those of banks, supermarkets, food processors and oil companies.

It should also be tripartite, "drawing members from business, labor and government," he said.

The last experiment with a tripartite economic panel, the now-abolished Pay Board, virtually collapsed in 1972 when AFL-CIO President George Meany and three other labor leaders quit in protest. Only one union president, Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters, stayed on to provide token labor representation.

A bill offered by Senate Democrats would set up a five member task force — three members named by Congress and two by the White House — with power to subpoena business records as a check on whether price increases are justified by higher costs or are being pumped up to fatten profits.

Ford Signs Gold Ownership Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has taken one more step toward ending a 40-year ban on gold ownership by U.S. citizens.

Ford signed a law Wednesday making it legal for Americans to buy and trade bullion as soon as the President gives the word, but no later than December 31, 1974.

It is an open question whether ending the ban will touch off a new wave of speculation or whether investors will greet the news with a big yawn. The price of gold has been rapidly rising and bullion appears to have become a speculator's fad and a way for investors to hold off inflation.

One New York corporation, Samuel Weiss Co., promptly announced that it has approval from the New York Stock Exchange to act as a bullion agent. It said it was going to make gold bars of ½, 1, 5, 10, 25 and 50 troy ounces.

Americans have been barred from owning and dealing in gold since 1934, in the law signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt taking the nation off the gold standard. Most other nations have no such restrictive law.

The only exception to the ban in this country is for industrial and artistic purposes and for personal use such as jewelry and coin collections.

Ford took the gold action in a roundabout way, by signing a bill authorizing $1.5 billion in U.S. support for the International Development Association, an agency of the World Bank that grants low interest loans to the most underdeveloped nations.

The gold ownership language was a congressional amendment to the IDA bill.

Alma Blamed for Plane Crash

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical Storm Alma, which claimed 47 lives in an airliner crash in Venezuela and another life in a swipe across Trinidad, raced across the southern fringe of the Caribbean today menacing the Netherlands Antilles with gale winds.

The storm center was moving at 22 miles an hour, unusually fast for a tropical storm, but its 55-mile winds were not expected to intensify on its present course, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said.

Gale warnings remained in effect for the Paria peninsula of Venezuela and that country's islands to the north, as well as the Netherlands Antilles islands of Bonaire, Curacao and Aruba.

The storm center was passing 60 miles eastward Wednesday when a Linea Aeropostal Venezolana turboprop airliner crashed into a hill on the Venezuelan island of Margarita while circling the Polamar airport, apparently unable to land due to near zero visibility.

"The only factor that could have caused it was bad weather in the region," said an airport radio operator. "Visibility was almost zero and the plane was circling the field when the accident occurred."

Alma's death toll rose to 48 when a housewife in central Trinidad was fatally slashed by a sheet of galvanized iron as her home collapsed around her. Several other persons were injured on Trinidad and damage was heavy.

Hurricane forecaster Paul Hebert in Miami said that in addition to its rapid movement, Alma's course is unusual.

It is at a very low latitude. Very few storms move along the coast like that.

"Alma is barely a tropical storm. What is unusual is that it has maintained itself at the rapid speed of 20 to 25 miles an hour. It is likely that the rapid speed has kept the storm from intensifying," Hebert said.

He said if the present course is maintained, the storm will strike the Venezuelan mountains. "It certainly won't intensify, it might weaken, it has a lot of land to cross. But it is possible for the storm center to stay over land and still have gale winds over the (Netherlands Antilles) islands." If it continues westward beyond the Venezuelan peninsula, "it can reorganize. We have had cases where storms have done this, others fall apart," he said.

Alma is the first tropical storm since the 1974 hurricane season began June 1. It was first spotted Tuesday morning by a U.S. Navy hurricane hunter plane from Puerto Rico, in the Atlantic east of Trinidad.

A century of service in 50 years.

Director William J. Dwyer (left) and Board Chairman James A. Dwyer as they observe fiftieth anniversary.

Board Chairman James A. Dwyer and Director William J. Dwyer, their service as Directors dating back to the first term of President Calvin Coolidge, are each observing 50 years' service with Rondout National Bank.

In 1924, the late James F. Dwyer, father of James A. and William J. Dwyer, became President of the Rondout National Bank and his sons started their long tenure as Directors. The Dwyers recall that at that time, the Rondout National Bank consisted of one office on East Strand, Kingston, and total assets of $1,400,000.

In 1943, James A. Dwyer became President of the bank. Ten years later in 1953, when the bank moved to its present headquarters at Broadway and Henry Street in Kingston, total resources of the bank were $4 million.

Today the bank consists of six offices, serving most of Ulster County, and $32 million in assets.

These two Directors through their wisdom, have played a large part in the growth of the bank and the prudent management of its assets. As a locally owned, full service bank, Rondout National Bank is managed by local business and professional men, such as the Dwyers, for the benefit of the people of Ulster County.

As the Dwyers begin their second century of service, they wish to thank the thousands of people who have patronized the bank. They and the other Directors pledge to continue the bank's tradition of providing a full complement of personal banking services.
